Group in dark on school data

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

In one of the most unusual public meetings in memory, a citizen claiming that the schools are keeping him "in the dark" led a 45-minute-long discussion in the darkness outside the Granite City Township Building on Thursday night.

Proposing lower school pay and higher taxes, David L. Melton told a gathering of about 50 persons that citizen action is needed to "avoid overcrowding, assure quality education and save our schools."

Some disagreed with him. They said they are unemployed and cannot afford any rise in real estate taxes.

Melton said he has consulted a lawyer in his effort to obtain data from Supt. B. J. Davis, whom he says regards the material as "personal working papers."

The data, part of which was given to the public at the School Board's cost-cut hearing Jan. 17, was reviewed by the board before it decided Feb. 1 to close six schools and end 203 jobs.

Melton outlined his views at the outdoor meeting and said he will submit the same information at tomorrow's 7:30 p.m. Board of Education session. He urged those hearing him Thursday night to be in attendance Tuesday.

Saying he has "nothing to gain and a lot to lose," Melton told the group he does not have a vendetta against the superintendent and board but does want to help assure a sound education for his children. He said good schools help attract industries and employment.

Melton reported that he has devoted hundreds of hours to studying the schools and has spent more than $100 for copies of audits and other financial information. Outlining other expenditures he has made, including renting the hall, he said he would accept cash donations from the crowd.

The township building was locked when the meeting began on the wide sidewalk outside it. A few in the gathering attributed this to an apparent misunderstanding and others speculated that perhaps school officials had not wanted the building to be opened.

Board Member David Partney, who was present, said the board had not sought to block the meeting, and added that the board could have made a school available if one had been requested.

After 15 minutes, lights went on in the Anderson to serve 30 years

By PATHAY LUTZ for the Press-Record

After listening to statements made by U.S. District Attorney Frederick Hess, Defense Attorney Wayne Schoenberg, and Don Henry Anderson himself, U.S. District Court Judge William Beatty of Granite City sentenced Anderson, Thursday, to 30 years imprisonment for violation of interstate commerce.

Anderson was convicted in January for disrupting the Hope Clinic for Women by kidnapping Dr. Hector Zevallos and his wife, Rosalie Jean, in August.

Prosecuting Attorney Hess requested that Anderson be given the maximum sentence of 30 years on each of two counts of violating interstate commerce. Anderson, in fact, received 18 years for attempting force of threats to impede interstate commerce and 12 years for attempting to do the same.

In his remarks to Judge Beatty, Hess cited the 44-page "Epistle" written by Anderson and suggested that the document was revolutionary. "The Epistle does not espouse any revelation from God (as Anderson claims), but espouses revolution," Hess said. "The document promotes acts of terrorism and even tells President Ronald Reagan that the Zevalloses will be killed if he (the president) does not put an end to abortion on demand," he said. "This is not a man of God, of course. This is a criminal," Hess concluded.

Defense Attorney Wayne Schoenberg cited Dr. Zevallos' admission of performing 70 to 80 abortions per week as criminal, and insisted that Anderson had not been found guilty of acts of terrorism, but violation of interstate commerce. Addressing Judge Beatty, Schoenberg said, "Let me talk to you lawyer to lawyer. Don't fall into the rhetoric put forth by the prosecution. They have produced a very thin case."

In a reference to Anderson's motivation, Schoenberg said, "Don was motivated by a strong feeling of anti-abortion."

Anderson then read a prepared statement in which he reinforced his previous claim of being convicted during an unfair trial and claimed that he did as he was commanded by God to do. "What we are talking about is abortion," Anderson said. "Dr. Zevallos is a cold-blooded killer and acknowledges killing 70 to 100 children a week. How can anyone believe that this is a nation under God if we prosecute those who were sent by God to protect the children of God?" he asked.

Anderson also suggested that members of the jury were confused by "the avalanche of an explanation" in which Judge Beatty outlined the elements of a crime, and by the Clinic director reacts

Concern that the kidnapping of Dr. Hector Zevallos and his wife, Rosalie Jean, helped "lay the foundation for terrorism" in the anti-abortion movement," was expressed Saturday by Laura Moody, director of the Hope Clinic for Women, Ltd., in Granite City, which is operated by Dr. Zevallos.

Miss Moody told the Press-Record that she feels "People across the country were outraged by this," but fears some anti-abortionists may see it as a call toward additional violence in the movement. "They use emotionally-charged words and propaganda," she noted and said violence "has been an ongoing problem for years, but, in the past two years, the violence has increased."

Miss Moody said she was asked by the FBI and U.S. District Attorney Frederick Hess not to discuss the kidnapping until the three charged had been tried. Now that the three have been found guilty, she is free to discuss the matter.

She said the FBI allowed her to read the "Epistles," the rambling anti-abortion document left for the FBI on a Forest Park restroom building four days after the Zevalloses were kidnapped.

"I immediately remember how redundant and rambling they were. They weren't well written and didn't make much sense. I don't think they

Volunteers ready for 'War on Hunger'

By GEORGEANN MCGEE of the Press-Record

Helen King of Venice has a sign on her mobile home door at 1101 Market St., Venice, to let the hungry know they have come to the right place to be fed.

"I'm going to put one in the front yard, too," Mrs. King, 61, a familiar presence in her community, said Friday as she prepared to go grocery shopping for food to give to the area's unemployed, senior citizens and others facing hard times.

This morning, she, Earl Hogan and the Rev. John Henry Williams of New Salem Baptist Church in Venice were expected to begin their Monday through Friday, breakfast and supper meal-distribution program. They are counting on the strength of the Lord and compassion of their neighbors to meet a goal they are sure they will reach.

They have dubbed themselves the three "Cs," the Concerned Citizens Club, but they already seemed bonded together by a common sense of service and respect for others. Mrs. King and Rev. Williams are both past presidents of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

On the surface, their optimism about filling the needs of the hungry that surround them in the Venice-West Madison area appears risky. They are ordinary people with $100 in their collective treasury and full of pride when it comes to "begging for money."

"If anybody wants to volunteer food or themselves, they're welcome," Rev. Williams explained, but he plans no fund drives. Those interested may donate checks or money orders to managers of two of the area's grocery stores at the Red

Corps dredge a 'remarkable' example of past technology

By LEONARD J. BUSEN

The "St. Genevieve" dredge — "a boat that walks" — is one-of-a-kind in all of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

It's a sternwheeler, Mark Twain style, the only one left, and it is no stranger to the Quad-City area, frequently keeping the Chain of Rocks Canal open.

Nostalgia and history buffs might bemoan the newer diesels, with a throaty purr, below-surface propellers and a shortage of atmosphere.

The "St. Genevieve" has steam power, a glistening orange paddlewheel, ivory skin and brass fittings. Its range: 300 miles of the Mississippi, forays up the Illinois and Kaskaskia, and loans to the Ohio and Missouri Rivers.

Capt. Gerold "Jay Ray" Lix allowed, "She's pretty to look at."

"She don't look any different now than when she came out; paint's a little thicker," said Joseph Donovan, leverman. Lix and Donovan have a combined service of 10 years aboard.

The "St. Genevieve" is a 1932 vintage cutterhead dredge with a strange knack: walking as she works.

Its mission is to bite up some 1,048 cubic yards per hour of solids and pump them out a half-mile away from the navigation channel.

Last year in 120 days it sucked up 1,551,540 yards of sand, dirt, rocks, and logs, or some 500 times the volume of its own 287-foot hull.

Cruising aboard the workhorse recently was enlightening.

She had just finished pulling up 162,221 yards of silt in 157 hours at Sterling Island, seven miles upstream of Lock and Dam 25, at Winfield, Mo. Now she paddled 23 miles south to Bolter's Island, near Brussels, Ill., where 92,221 yards of debris clogged a bend.

Under way, she had expanded to become a 585-foot complex with fuel and damage barges and 57 floating pontoons tied forward, a pair of tenders and a motor launch.

The sternwheel — 28 by 20 feet with 14 oaken "bucket" paddles — was rolled along by steam pistons in seven-foot strokes, churning at six mph.

Time — from a stern view — had stood still, locked in the 1800s. Visions floated of the "Natchez" and "Robert E. Lee," racing in 1870, New Orleans to St. Louis.

"Well, guess I better watch what I'm doing and get in them locks," said the captain, jolting to the present. Donovan added, "Better slow her down a bit. If

WALKING ON WATER. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers dredge, the St. Genevieve, is the last sternwheel-powered dredge in the Corps. It was built in 1932 by Dravo Contracting Co., Pittsburgh, Pa. At right, Cleatus L. Raines, leverman, moves the controls that lift and lower the spuds on which the dredge "walks" on the riverbed.

AARP chapter gives money to SIUE

The Granite City chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) recently donated $500 to the Gerontology Program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

For the past six years the Granite City AARP chapter has contributed $500 to a community project in the area. Ruth Allen, president of the chapter, said the donation is considered an investment in the future. She said this year's award recognizes the contributions the SIUE Gerontology program has made toward improving the quality of life of older adults in the Metro-East area.

Anthony Traxler, director of the SIUE Gerontology Program, said the money will help the program continue to provide quality education for students planning careers in aging and to professionals serving the aging network. He said the continued growth of the older adult population has resulted in a critical need for highly trained gerontological professionals both nationally and in the Metro-East area.

The Granite City AARP chapter was chartered in 1973 and is one of the largest AARP chapters in the region. Nationally, AARP is recognized as the largest educational service organization for older Americans.

Traxler pointed out that as educational budgets are cut, academic and service programs will increasingly depend on the contributions and support of private individuals and organizations.

WOLLEYBALL LEAGUE FORMING AT YMCA

The Tri-City Area YMCA will be starting a volleyball league on Saturday evenings. Volleyball is a combination between racquetball and volleyball. Play will be held on a racquetball court using a volleyball and net.

The organizational meeting will be Saturday, Feb. 19 at 5 p.m. Play will begin Feb. 26 at 6 p.m. Those interested may contact the YMCA at 876-7200.

Farmers may participate in the PIK acreage reduction on one farm and not another.

"Any increase in coverage will be in effect for the farm selected for PIK participation, without affecting the guarantee or premium on the other insured farm(s)," Crawford said.

"Upon acceptance of the revised acreage report the premium will be recomputed on the remaining acreage," Crawford continued.

Under a bid arrangement, farmers may reduce the entire acreage to zero. On that case, a zero acreage report may be made to the agent by March 11. Farmers should verify acceptance of the bid with their agent by March 18. If the bid is not accepted, the farmer remains insured for the acreage intended for harvest.

"Insured farmers should contact the local agent authorized to service their FCIS policy before March 11 to report any downward revisions on insured acreage and to gain the advantage of the increased protection," Crawford concluded.

DELLUMS CANCELS
SPEECH AT SIUE

The busy schedule of U.S. Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, (D-Calif.) will not permit him to speak at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in February, according to Ti Juana Ingram of the student Program Board at SIUE.

The congressman has been scheduled to speak at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19, in Meridian Ballroom at the University. Miss Ingram said the SIUE currently is seeking another speaker to replace Rep. Dellums.

The congressman's speech was to be part of the University's observance of February as Black History Month.

SIUE workshops will provide aid information

Financial Aid Awareness Week will be observed Feb. 20 through 26 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Proclaimed by Gov. James Thompson, the observance serves to emphasize Illinois' commitment to higher education by providing information concerning financial aid to students, their families and other interested individuals.

Beginning Feb. 21 and 22, tables will be set up in the University Center from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m., where application forms and information on the different types of financial resources will be available.

A series of workshops has been scheduled Feb. 23 and 24 to help students fill out the application forms properly. According to Gary Collins, counselor in the Office of Student Work and Financial Aid, "Many students get into trouble when filling out the forms. The forms should be filled out precisely in order to prevent delays in receiving assistance."

On Feb. 23 and 24, workshops will be 12:30 p.m. in the Hickory Room on the second floor of the University Center, and again at 7 p.m. in the Red Bud Room of the Center. There also is a workshop scheduled at the East St. Louis Center at noon, Thursday, Feb. 24 in the lower auditorium.

Several types of aid are available from federal, state and local sources, Collins said. Two major sources are the Illinois State Scholarship Commission's (ISSC) monetary award and the Pell Grant. The ISSC awards up to $2,000 annually for Illinois residents attending Illinois institutions. The Pell Grant offers up to $1,800 per year at 7,000 locations throughout the United States.

Three federal campus-based programs include the supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, providing $2,000 annually; College Work Study, in which educational expenses are earned through work and the National Direct Student Loan, where the principal is paid back with 5 percent interest starting six months after leaving school.

Local banks also offer loan programs which include the Illinois Guaranteed Student Loan Program, at 9 percent interest; the Parent Loan for Undergraduate Students, which allows parents to borrow money at 12 percent; and the Auxiliary Loan to Assist Students, which allows borrowing at 12 percent, deferring payment of principal but requiring interest payments while enrolled.

Clinic on pesticides

The 1983 Agriculture Pesticide Dealers and Applicators Clinic will be held Wednesday, Feb. 16, at the Holiday Inn in Collinsville. Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m.

The Illinois Department of Agriculture will give the general standards certification examination at 8 a.m. to those wanting to obtain a commercial pesticide applicator license. In the afternoon, category exams will be given to people needing the exams.

Persons issued an applicator license in 1978 or before need to be certified again this year.

University of Illinois specialists will provide an educational program beginning at 9:30 a.m. Topics will include problem weeds, pesticide recommendations, insect control in reduced tillage systems, update on corn, soybean and small grain diseases, equipment, restricted use pesticides and Illinois state labels for special local needs.

The program is open to anyone interested in attending. Registration fee is $5.

FLOODING SET ON MEETING INSURANCE

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), in cooperation with the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (MRC), is sponsoring a special meeting on the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) for banks, savings and loan associations, mortgage houses, insurance agencies, and realtors.

Federally regulated or insured institutions must comply with specific federal regulations regarding lending money in flood-prone areas and requiring flood insurance on certain loans. Insurance agents need to be informed about the latest changes in flood insurance availability and costs, as well as how to service clients wanting or needing flood insurance.

Realtors should be knowledgeable about the NFIP so they can answer questions raised by their customers.

These issues and others will be discussed at the meeting scheduled for 2 p.m., Feb. 15, at the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission offices, 203 West Main Street, Collinsville, 344-4250. Representatives of lending institutions, insurance agencies and real estate firms are being encouraged to attend.

ATTRACTING BIRDS TOPIC OF LECTURE

A free slide show and lecture on "How to Attract Birds" will be presented by John McCall at Home Nursery in Edwardsville on Saturday, Feb. 19, at 2 p.m.

The slide show will feature information on feeders, houses, water provisions, and planting the right shrubs and trees to attract birds. McCall will also answer questions about birds including their needs, habits and interesting characteristics.

McCall is past president of the local chapter of the Southwestern Illinois Audubon Society and has served on the Board of Directors of the Illinois Audubon Society.

Home Nursery is located at Route 157 and University Drive. The presentation is open to the public.

main hall and the door was opened, but Melton did not lead the group inside. Instead, the meeting continued for another half-hour in 18-degree weather, with the speaker occasionally hard to hear and at other times illuminated by South-West California light.

Melton said, "We are gathered here tonight to discuss and, hopefully, offer assistance on one of the most critical problems to hit our area in recent years. As you realize, we have had and are having serious economic problems. We are gathered to discuss alternatives to the drastic action announced by our superintendent of schools and approved by the School Board on Feb. 1.

"I stated Feb. 1 and I state again tonight that the reduction in facilities and classroom instruction appeared to be excessive.

"I stated that data presented by the superintendent and board revealed anticipated 1982-83 cash revenue of approximately $24 million and an estimated budget of $29,924,019. This budget represents an increase of $5,924,019 or a 24.7 percent deficit based on projected revenues.

"However, the 1981-82 actual expenses were $26,511,897. If the 1982-83 budget had not been increased to the record level, and instead had been frozen at the 1981-82 actual level, the projected deficit would be approximately $2,500,000.

"Based on a review of available data which has been used by the superintendent's office, I offer for consideration the following proposal in an effort to avoid the drastic school closings.

"I recommend spending $27,711,429 in 1982-83, instead of the $26,511,897 actual 1981-82 total and the $29,924,019 estimated for 1982-83.

"The $26,511,897 in 1981-82 consisted of $23,182,205 education fund, $1,494,727 building and maintenance, $1,187,592 transportation and $467,375 municipal retirement.

"For 1982-83, the estimates are: education $23,930,424; building $1,497,200; transportation $1,396,400 and retirement fund $711,995.

"My recommendations are: education $24,154,400; building $1,497,200; transportation $1,258,910 and retirement $668,830.

"Based upon receipt of revenues of approximately $24 million, the projected $27.7 million budget would represent a $3.7 million deficit for 1982-83, not $5.9 million," Melton said.

"I realize we cannot continue in this deficit situation, although according to the board's figures we have been in a negative condition since about 1976 or before.

"For 1983-84, I recommend that we freeze the budget at a $27.7 million level with revenues continuing at $24 million.

"I recommend that the superintendent and board set aside the Feb. 1 recommendation for excessive school closings and review these cost-saving suggestions.

"The approximately 17 teachers retiring this year would not be replaced, for savings of approximately $289,000.

"2. At South High, have only one assistant principal and a principal and six secretaries for savings of $110,000.

"3. At North High, only one assistant principal and five secretaries for savings of $45,000.

"4. Regarding administrators and secretaries at the board office, I recommend a minimum reduction of 30 percent for savings of $180,000. "5. Request a 15 percent reduction of all salaries in the district for savings of $245,000.

"6. Offer teachers a 1983-84 contract at no increase in salary and with denial of 10 sick days. If taken in the 1983-84 school year, the sick days would not be reimbursable. In exchange, there would be no additional 1983-84 layoffs except for disciplinary reasons. I estimate savings of approximately $1,335,000.

"The above recommendations represent $2,204,000 in savings the first year. These would equal a $2.5 million deficit and should be considered as a minimum. I am sure other reductions could be achieved with an efficiency analysis," Melton asserted.

"Based upon second-year savings increasing and continued frugal spending, I believe the board could balance the budget and repay existing loans anticipated to be $3 million, by passage of a tax referendum to a maximum sales of $4 per $100 assessed property valuation.

"This would raise approximately $5.5 million based on a $273 million assessed value of property.

"I recommend that, upon receipt of the total cooperation of the school superintendent and Board of Education, and agreement with teachers and other employees of the district, and a presentation to the public, that all parents and taxpayers band together to distribute the necessary petitions to get an emergency referendum.

"In order to get the emergency referendum, the School Board must adopt a resolution and file a petition of request with the court. I believe this could be accomplished due to the critical nature of this civic matter," Melton said.

"I request Mr. Davis and the board to seriously consider this proposal and advise me if it is feasible.

"I implore all citizens, taxpayers, teachers, elected officials and students to pledge their time to assist in this matter.

"Fellow citizens, this is a small investment to ensure quality education, consisting of small classes, more personalized teaching, and the retention of quality young teachers. The teachers' average age now is more than 44.

"The recommendation I have just stated should only cost the owner of a $30,000 home, only about one-third or 10,000, approximately 17 cents a day. All figures in this article are those volunteered by Mr. Melton.

"This would be a small price for community pride and strong educational quality. It would be a definite drawing card for business and industry.

"He concluded his basic presentation by saying, "Fellow citizens and elected officials, please hear me. Our children, our future, and the future of our community require our support."

Melton, who gave his address as 2701 Angela Drive, works at McDonnell Douglas Inc. in St. Louis.

Supt. Davis and several board members have said they would not favor a tax hike election at a time when schools are filled only to 60 percent of their capacity. The closings that will go into effect prior to 1983-84 are expected to result in building utilizations of 75 to 91 percent.

Although David Melton is continuing to speak against overcrowding, of course has pledged that none will occur.

He reiterated Thursday night that the number of children assigned to a teacher can have a marked effect on the effectiveness of teaching.

Melton told the outdoor gathering that County Clerk Evelyn Bowles is among those from whom he has obtained verification of school information. He said he also has consulted a board member.

One woman in the audience suggested that differences in figures on the amount of available funds could have sinister implications.

Melton said he is concerned about an auditing statement. He said he interprets it as saying that some school inventories have not involved physical counting of goods.

Part of the crowd applauded many of his statements, while others cautioned him about the extent of governmental spending and its impact on senior citizens.

Melton said he is not encouraging higher taxation of aged persons, but that younger families should be willing to pay more in order to perpetuate the present caliber of instruction.

He said school planning outlined by District Nine officials at this month's Netherland's Parent-Teacher Association meeting failed to explain how the budget imbalance can be resolved, even with severe cost reductions.

Melton said officials have assured the public that Granite City High School South is large enough to accommodate all ninth through twelfth grade students, but now may be backing away from that stand by saying they will utilize a nine-classroom wing of adjacent Coolidge Junior High School.

He said he asked the superintendent about this and was told that use of a Coolidge wing has been an integral part of this winter's discussions on which personnel to retain and where to assign them.

A man said many local families are desperate about paying their taxes, and simply cannot afford any increase. He added that the depth of such poverty is not well understood by those who favor higher school costs.

Melton said kindergarten classes are showing an increase in size and that within seven or eight years, overall enrollment here may be growing.

He commented that, while school authorities are talking about retaining some buildings, the public should ponder a board member's Feb. 1 comment that there may be a need to retire current debt "without a large property tax increase, a significant increase in state funding, and/or the sale of a major asset worth several million dollars."

David Melton said he is worried that a school may be sold, leaving fewer classrooms available to cope with future enrollment upsurges.

He said he will present his concerns and that he hopes for a written response from the school district. He added that the answers he has received so far are inadequate.

the wind don't catch you, the current will," "Genny" was easing to the 600-foot lock for a tight fit. Lix shoehorned her in and out, no problem.

"You ain't kidding! This needs diggin' in," said First Mate Donald "D.R." Karl via radio as the dredge neared Bolter's. He was aboard the "Fogholp" tender, setting buoys to mark the dredge.

From the plothouse, Lix indicated "an outward protrusion — a point," an underwater hazard.

"Some pretty good size boulders are out there," he said, noting ripples. "In that bend, it's probably not more than 350 feet.

The Corps maintains a channel nine feet deep, 200 to 500 feet wide at bends, Lix said.

The tempo picked up, a flurry as crewmen prepared to stretch discharge pipes to the far shore, and the tender boats scurried about. Claude Dunn, Corps inspector, mused, "It's always hurry when you're setting up or breaking up. Everybody except 'Jay'."

he's got to take it easy." "Jay" Lix was setting the steering levers used to, it had a "corkscrew" plothouse, and was "telegraphing" askern, ahead, slow, fast to the engine room.

Dunn took the moment to praise the Corps' public awareness, its respect over the years for the river.

"In the '20s, the Corps documented very carefully the environmental effects," he said, in days "when you gave an engineer a piece of cornbread and a pot of beans and said do your work."

He's been amazed at the competence. "In the '60s the Corps began using aerial photography to chart the river. It's remarkable how they fit maps done by hand in the '30s. We're still using their control points."

Discuss peace prospects

Samuel B. Grant, associate professor of history and political science at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will discuss prospects for peace in the Middle East, Wednesday at SIUE.

The discussion is part of the weekly dialogue with senior citizens series and will meet in the Mississippi Room of the University Center from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Grant specializes in Middle East history and has taught at universities in Istanbul, Turkey and Aleppo, Syria. For educational information about the program, interested persons may contact SIUE's Gerontology Program at 1-692-3454.

In a bow to the 20th century, even the "Ste. Genevieve" now has sonar for squiggly-lined underwater "slope poles" of what's dug, and to be dug.

Just then a roar. The boat shuddered. "They're warming the engine that raises the spuds," Lix explained.

The spuds: two steel — in the past, cypress or redwood — legs, 45½ feet long, on which the "Ste. Genevieve" sits.

"She just walks down the river," District Chief Walter C. Feld, navigations branch, had said casually.

So, it was time for that now. A 28,000-pound spud was hoisted, dropped gravely free fall, its point jabbed into the riverbed.

The dredge pivoted, its cutterhead gouging a 110-degree arc. Like a giant, very slow-moving duck, it swung in six-foot steps on alternate legs, winched to 3,000-pound anchors 200 feet to either side. "It makes a beautiful bow cut," Dunn said. "We can pump a 50-pound rock and wouldn't even phase it, hammer it right on through."

The cutterhead is a rotating ball six feet across. It gobbles tons of debris in a sideways sweep, vacuuming up perhaps 10 times that volume of water.

Jack autos, cable, rope, bits of barges and boats, are snagged. It was, however, stopped on this recent day by a log, which got sucked in and jammed the 1,200-hp. centrifugal pump. Crewmen dismantled the pump and it resumed. "A lot of people have trouble understanding a dredge 'round the clock," Donny said.

From July to December, the "Ste. Genevieve" dredges a day to two weeks at each of some 25 sites, so 70 million tons a year of grain, chemicals and other commodities can be barged.

The river is not so serene as it appears. "You've got great big sand waves (on the bottom), maybe 10 or 15 feet high," Feld explained. "How fast the river rises and falls, how long it's up, has a lot to do with the drifts."

The "Ste. Genevieve" slices out a near picture-perfect bow cut, to as deep as 35 feet. "I think you'd say out pools are beautiful," said Dunn. "They used to be uncontrolled mudholes."

"The big river is like a small creek out in the country, only it's a larger body of water, a trickle between pools. A creek in the country, you can see it. Here, you've got deep water pools and shallow crossings. Basically, that's what maintenance is all about, to keep the water moving between pools, which on the Mississippi may be five miles long, with one-mile crossings."

The theory is to work with the river, opening it and letting it clean itself, not totally chop it up. "It's a desirable to keep it in its natural state, 'cause there is not enough money, and it's not good for the stream itself, to remove it all," Dunn said.

Meanwhile, the "Ste. Genevieve" is well-equipped for its job. "She's an antique," Bill Kaufman, leverman acknowledged, with "a big compass, radio, air-conditioning and radar" attached.

As Donovan sees it, though, diesel's not lead fuel and manpower and more repairs. He concedes, "One thing about a diesel, you can shut her down right away. This thing, you got to stay with it. Steam boilers have to be kept up or shut off gradually, or the tubes may warp."

But again, the sternwheel itself has big plus on repairs. "If you had a screw wheel, it's underwater and you got to have it towed," Donovan pointed out.

"Here, all you have to do is get back there with some lumber and board her up. They made it that way, 'cause they didn't have shipyards."

Three-church Lenten Services announced

Bishop McNicholas to visit on Ash Wednesday

Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas, leader of the Springfield Catholic Diocese, will join five Quad City congregations this week as they begin the season of Lent, Ash Wednesday, Feb. 16.

He begins a six-week period of preparation for Easter, marked by traditional prayer, fasting and almsgiving.

At an Ash Wednesday 8:10 a.m. mass at St. Margaret Mary Church, the bishop will bless and distribute ashes.

Later, at 11 a.m., the children's mass at Sacred Heart Church also will be celebrated by the bishop, who will again distribute ashes.

The bishop will celebrate the Ash Wednesday liturgy at 2 p.m. at St. Mary's Church in Madison. Returning to Granite City, Bishop McNicholas is scheduled to celebrate two more masses at which he again will bless and distribute ashes. The first will be at St. Joseph's Church at 5 p.m. and the second at St. Elizabeth's Church at 7 p.m.

The church bulletins in each parish list the times of special services for the whole of the Lenten season.

Excavations are approved

Illinois Power Co. has received permission to do excavation work this month and March at three Granite City locations.

The company plans to install gas mains along Washington Avenue between 28th and 29th streets from Feb. 21 to March 18, at an alley separating the 2900 blocks of State Street and Grand Avenue from Feb. 21 to March 21, and in the 2900 block of Washington Avenue from Feb. 21 to March 25.

The Granite City Council approved the work under the supervision of the street department.

Gasoline prices dropping fast

We, like all motorists, were overjoyed when we saw gasoline at least one Quad-City area service station dip to 99.9 cents per gallon Thursday afternoon for self-serve, cash-only regular gasoline. Under a hunk! That's great news.

Or is it? OPEC obviously is taking its long-deserved lumps, along with the American oil companies. There is a great deal of debate who did what to us about seven years ago, but one thing is clear, it took a great many people working together to drive gasoline prices up so rapidly and keep them at an artificially-high price for so long.

The sudden price collapse, however, could have serious consequences in the international market. American banks have gigantic investments in countries which could be forced into economic collapse or overthrow due to the loss of revenues from oil exporting.

Nigeria, Venezuela, Mexico are teetering on the brink. Loss of this major income could push them over and, with their collapse goes millions of dollars invested by America and Americans.

Drastic drops threaten the American oil exploration, energy conservation and new energy production drives.

On the other hand, some, in addition to the average motorist, could benefit. Lower energy costs will aid Granite City Steel and other manufacturers at a time when they need a shot in the arm.

Hopefully, lower prices will trickle through power companies and result in lower rates, but we doubt it, since the mild winter has decreased Illinois Power's winter income and new revenues are needed. While we are thrilled to see our automotive gasoline bills drop, we watch carefully to see the overall result. We would have preferred a slightly more gradual decline in prices, allowing the world economy to adjust as the market switches from insane to normal.

State digging deeply into debt

We have taken the position that borrowing to meet regular costs is a serious matter because the problem tends to grow rapidly, like a big snowball rolling downhill. Dollars devoted to principal and interest divert new revenue from being applied to the purposes for which it is intended.

This may have seemed like a "hard line" for us to take, in regard to local schools and cities, at a time when the state and federal governments were amassing far bigger debts—more than a half-billion dollars in Illinois and nearly a trillion in Washington. But a day of reckoning eventually arrives.

An inkling of how deep a hole our state has been digging for itself is emerging as March 2 draws near. That is the day when the budget for the July 1983-June 1984 year will be announced.

Based on no increase in tax rates, the budget will sharply reduce, or eliminate altogether, many programs.

Special obligations that have been waiting in the wings include: a one-time increase in state income tax refunds of about $200 million; legislatively-required funding for the pay of state troopers from general revenue; and, for the first time, interest payments by the state for unemployment compensation borrowed from the U.S.

These budget elements are moving to the center of the stage and cannot be avoided. They will severely reduce the money left for education and for ongoing services to the poor.

Along with the new demands, there are obligations that result from the recession's impact on the state. Included are repayment of short-term loans of $200 million, and restoration to school districts of a one-time delay in state aid distribution that occurred in 1981-82.

These added debts will further cut financing for other state programs. The impact is so great that officials are discussing an always-dreaded topic—higher taxation—and asserting that without it essential services no longer can be provided.

At stake are general assistance, revenue-sharing, mental services, school aid, job training, student income support to the unemployed, health services for poor children, supervision of parolees receiving regular and early release from prison, state parks, soil erosion programs, museums, arts grants and guardianship services.

This long list shows the dimensions, and ramifications, of governmental borrowing—a serious issue.

Could winter be over so soon?

An interesting question came up yesterday over the barbecue pit. "Dad, is this the last barbecue of the season or the first barbecue of the spring?"

It's a hard one to answer. Here we are in the dead of winter, comfortably barbecuing in a light jacket. Nearby, the crocuses have broken ground, the rose bushes have put out new sprouts and leaves and the apple trees are coming to life.

We don't have a bear, so we can't say if bears are waking from hibernation.

Undoubtedly, talking about the good weather in the newspaper will break the spell. Old Man Winter will let loose with all his fury. The old statement, "If you don't like the weather in St. Louis, wait a minute," will come true.

Even the National Weather Service is baffled. A spokesman there said this morning, after reading the five-day forecast, "Isn't that something. It's in the 50s and they're talking about snow on Wednesday?"

Yes indeed, amid predicted 40s and 50s this week, the Weather Service says there is a chance of rain or snow Wednesday.

Is this the first barbecue of the spring? We suggest knocking on wood, carrying a rabbit's foot, rubbing a horseshoe or anything that can help make it so.

Thoughts on thinking precisely

Admiral Hyman Rickover's current thoughts on education—"There should be a return to the ideal of a truly liberal education based on the three R's, which result in the ability to read intelligently, think precisely, speak fluently and write clearly."

The lack of national standards of performance blinds everyone to how poor our system is. Just how bad things have become is illustrated by the fact that all four major users of high school graduates—business, industry, colleges and the military—must conduct remedial courses in math and English.

Inadequacies are increasingly obvious, especially in technical and scientific areas. Poor education is an insidious cause of a permanent underclass of untaught, unemployable proletarians. We now have a supposedly non-elitist system, yet it has distinctly anti-democratic implications.

We simply do not educate our youths so they can perform effectively in modern, technologically demanding jobs. The public must demand excellence in education and be willing to pay the bill. Students must be convinced that ultimately they are responsible for their education, that there is no easy way to excellence, no short cut, no magic wand that can produce the trained, disciplined minds they will need as adults.

The Navy's chief nuclear officer until retiring a year ago, he spoke out in citing the cost of remedial courses and in noting America's problems in competing with industries in foreign countries.

Readers React

A Press-Record reporter asked Quad-Cityans how they feel about Gov. James Thompson's proposed increase in state taxes, including a 60 percent increase in the state income tax. Their responses follow:

Elaine Robertson, Granite City

"I'm thinking quite seriously about writing the governor...I think it borders on being preposterous. There is no way the average family can afford this. I honestly think what he's (Thompson) done is proposed this amount to get a lesser amount. I think it's a ploy. The man can't be stupid enough to believe the legislature would ever pass such a high increase."

Bill Green, Granite City

"With jobs being fewer, the work being harder and wages being less, I think it would take more away from the little man. I oppose it completely. It would take a big part of my paycheck."

Debbie Meade, Granite City

"I don't like it. Not at all. It's too much. I think it will cost the working people."

Asks what we get from utility rate hikes

To the Editor:

In 1978, the government lifted the regulation controls on natural gas. That is why our utility bills are so high. Today, the average consumer pays $64 a month, compared to last winter at $48, just for gas. By next year it will double to about $130 a month. In the next 10 years, at that rate, we can expect to pay $600 a month, for gas only, mind you, if the controls are not put back on natural gas.

Frightening, isn't it? The real corker is that the new pipeline in Alaska is supplying Japan with cheap gas. Instead of being shipped to all of our power countries, so our cost would be cheaper.

One alternative is solar power, which the power company refuses to talk about. Although they have invested in it, they like to keep the public in the dark about it. You can turn to wood burning stoves and fireplaces, if you can afford to pay an extra $100 yearly on your insurance.

The phone company is sticking it to us pretty much the same way. They recently applied for a 5.6 percent increase, just before AT&T split from Bell. In May, they had just received a 7.2 percent increase.

How do we know that money is going back into the company, as they claim? We never see it. It seems like they're always sticking their hands out, saying, "More, more." Their pockets must be solid-gold-lined by now.

What have they given us for the increases? Nothing, but they've decreased inside service. That costs extra. They have nothing to show for their rate increases, except their "gold-lined pockets."

Writer concerned over Thompson's tax plan

To the Editor:

As an already overburdened taxpayer, I listened with real horror to Governor Thompson's request for a 60 percent hike in the personal income tax rate and a 40 percent hike in the corporate tax rate. Aren't individuals and businesses in this state suffering enough from the recession? Must we continue to watch our paychecks shrink while our utility bills climb ever higher?

A 60 percent increase in the tax rate will mean that if you make $500 in Illinois income taxes in 1982, in 1983 you will be paying $800.

I think that it is time for government to start reducing its spending and to stop thinking that the taxpayers are a never ending source of more money. Write to Governor Jim Thompson, Senator Sam Vadalabene and Representative Sam Wolf and let them know how you feel on this issue.

A TIRED TAXPAYER

Unemployment workers doing their jobs well

To the Editor:

On occasion, I've had to receive unemployment, as well as many others I know. I've always been waited on, as have the others.

Upon reaching the Unemployment Office, I've had to scoot my way in, in order to hundreds of pieces of mail on the hall floor. After getting in, seeing stacks of (I have seen) mail on the desks, phones constantly ringing, people in groups going into designated rooms to be taken care of. Personally, I seriously doubt if our complainor could or would cope with the public as well as these workers do. They do get the work done and, as for as I'm concerned, that's what they go there for, not to be wined and dined.

Boys want father's killers caught, punished

To the Editor:

We don't write well so someone is writing this for us, but it's what we think and feel and say. One year ago, someone shot and killed our dad. No one got put in jail for it and that is not fair.

I had a dad for seven years and my brother only five years. That's not long to know him, real well and now we won't get to ever.

We know the police want to be fair, so please find who hurt our dad and took him away from us.

We will ask God to help find them. Our dad won't come back to us, but we want the bad people put in jail.

People's Organization praises generosity

To the Editor:

In today's world, with such a lack of love and concern for one another, it is refreshing to know two people that are exceptions to that rule.

These two people have supported us over and over in all our endeavors. They are always there and can be depended upon to do their part. Their concern for their constant man is shown by their support and endless support.

Therefore, we, The People's Organization to Benefit the Children of Venice, would like to take this opportunity to display our appreciation and give recognition to Dave Schermer of Schermer's Grocers and Charles Hester of Charlie's Restaurant. We give our sincere thanks and may God continue to bless you.

STARBURST a group of vocalists associated with the Collinsville Chapter of Sweet Adelines will entertain at the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce dinner on Wednesday. The dinner meeting will be at Buck and Jan's Den, 2400 State St. From left, Billie Vance, Cheryl Wessel, Kathy Schaefer and Patty Walker.

'Seedbed' books designed to help the young learn

The kindergarten class was instructed to circle all the objects on the worksheet that had names that rhymed.

The articles pictured on the paper included an alphabet block, a candy cane, a lock, a clock, a sock and an airplane. Heather didn't circle the sock because she thought it was a stocking, and stocking doesn't rhyme with block.

The children were setting themselves up for a less-than-satisfying grade unless their teacher understood the rationales behind their choices, according to Helen Miller, author of "Seedbed 14."

She said that children identify and label items according to their own personal points of reference. In the book, Mrs. Miller points out the importance of teachers being more explicit when giving children directions and having them explain their work before it is graded.

Two new editions of "Seedbed," a collection of teaching aids for elementary teachers, were published by the Teachers' Center Project at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during January.

Copies of "Seedbed 14 and 15" are available through the Teachers' Center Project at the university. Additional information concerning the books may be obtained by contacting O'Brien at the center by calling 1-892-2118.

SIUE ALUMNI PLAN CHECKERDOME EVENT
Alumni of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will meet Friday, Feb. 18, following the soccer game between the St. Louis Steamers and the Kansas City Comets. The game between the two teams begins at 7:35 p.m. in the St. Louis Checkerdome.

At the alumni meeting, in the Board Room of the Checkerdome, guests of the SIUE Alumni Association will include Steamer players Jeff Cacciatore, Don Ebert and John Sternlau and Comets' Bob Bozada, Greg Makowski, Tim Clark and Greg Villa, all former players for the SIUE Cougar Kickers.

Other guests will include the Comets' coach, Pat McBride, and his assistant, Rick Benben, both graduates of SIUE and former members of the Cougar coaching staff.

REPORTS CAR DAMAGE
Brenda Harper, 1735 Rhodes St., Madison, reported to police Thursday at 9 a.m. that sometime after 6 p.m. Tuesday both front parking lights and a rear taillight were broken out of her automobile parked at her home. Scratches also were found on the driver's side door.

FOURTH GRADERS TO ATTEND CONCERT

Half of the fourth grade students at the Louis Baer School will be attending a St. Louis Symphony Concert on Wednesday, Feb. 16. The attendance at the concert has been made possible through the Venice-Madison Fine Arts Committee.

The Young People's Concert will present a program entitled "Fold Songs and Frolics." The concert will have music which sprung from the people and fulfilled frolics, the antics of a mischievous character named Till. The orchestra will be under the direction of Antonio Joy Wilson.

Guest artists will be the Imaginary Theatre Company, two men and two women who specialize in story theatre. They will act out the Till Eulenspiegel story told by the music. Compositions performed will be: Smetana, "The Bartered Bride"; Dances (Polka and Dance of the Comedians); Kodaly, "Variations on a Hungarian Folk Song"; ("The Peacock"); Strauss, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks."

Earlier in the year the other half of the fourth graders attended a concert. Dolores Folkert's Curriculum Director in the Madison Schools, is coordinating the Symphony Student Concert Project. Bob Barnhart is principal of the Louis Baer School.

O'BRIEN INVENTS GAME SOFTWARE

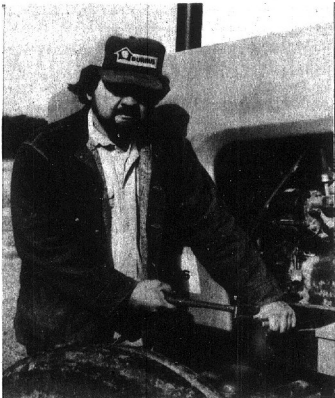

Thomas C. O'Brien, director of the Teachers' Center Project at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been awarded the Atari Star Award for educational software, according to Paul Cabbage, Atari Corporation contest director.

O'Brien's software, titled "Teasers by Tobbs," enables children to interact with computers in a game that involves inference, computation and hypothesis testing. The games are designed for children ages 8 and older.

The program was developed in cooperation with Sunburst Communications of Pleasantville, N.Y.

"Teasers by Tobbs" will be marketed by Atari Apex of Sunnyvale, Calif. Versions of the software compatible with Apple and TRS-80 computers are available from Sunburst Communications.

O'Brien, a resident of University City, Mo., joined the SIUE faculty in 1970. He is a researcher on children's thinking and a former NATO Senior Research Fellow in Science.

Weekend vandals busy

Several incidents of damage, mostly caused by rock throwers, were noted during the weekend in Granite City.

Miss Pat Moseley, 2811 Palmer Ave., reported at 2:30 p.m. Saturday that she was seated in a station wagon waiting in line at the Pep Car Wash, 3316 Nameoki Road, when two young boys threw a rock, breaking the vehicle's windshield.

The boys, about 7 years old, were located by the driver and one of the youngsters gave an address, which later proved to be false, police said.

Vandals also shattered the window of a new pickup truck belonging to Dan Dunnavant, 1928 Beckwith St., Madison, which was parked on the Granite City Steel Blast Furnace parking lot on Edwardsville Road, he reported at 1:55 p.m. Saturday.

Someone struck the side of her house then five minutes later threw a rock through the front window.

Vandals also hurled a piece of concrete through two porch windows at the home of Joy Wofford, 2108 Waterman Ave., she reported at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Officers searched the interiors of both St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ, 2101 Cleveland Blvd., and First Baptist Church, 2041 Delmar Ave.,

where windows were found to have been broken or damaged in an attempt to possibly enter the buildings late Friday and early Saturday morning. No one was found inside either church.

GC reports vital facts

Granite City Clerk Robert Stevens reports that in January his office recorded 34 deaths and 56 births.

Two additional births, which occurred in December, were recorded, since they had not been included in that month's statistics.

Fox, 420 Broadway, Venice, or Schermer Brothers' Super Market, 1125 Madison Ave., Madison, where the group will hunt, among other places, for bargains.

Rather than mapping a fundraising strategy, they are counting on the simple thoughtfulness of their fellow man. "We've got a whole lot of good people," Rev. Williams believes. "We trust in God. He touches other people's hearts, too."

Until the 7 to 9 a.m. breakfast and 4 to 6 p.m. supper servings are offered during at least a week's cycle, the group has no estimate how much in demand the free meals might be. But Mrs. King, a former restaurant cook and veteran family reunion coordinator, has had some experience preparing large quantities of food.

The cooking for this community project will be split among about three kitchens with Mrs. King's serving as the pickup point for residents.

The seed for the program was planted last New Year's Day when Mrs. King used her Christmas savings to translate an old expression of her mother's into action. "I heard my mother say it was good luck to have black-eyed peas to begin the year." She theorized that good luck could only abound if she shared a black-eyed peas dinner with anyone who wanted a hot meal to begin the year.

She dug into her $270 savings and purchased 60 pounds of peas and 60 pounds of turkey meat. She added biscuits, dessert and a few other treats to the fare and fed more than 320 persons.

But the experience left some disheartening memories. She was surprised at the response from Granite City. Hogan, a former school board member and "snowballing effect" of the evidence presented by the government. Accused conduct officers are suppressing his civil rights. Anderson named several instances where the proceedings proved to be unfair to him.

"Thirty witnesses I had were denied," he stated. "I have been denied copies of my attorney's files. I have been denied access to law books. I couldn't cross-examine the witness and, therefore, we wasn't able to trap them in their perjury," he said.

Anderson accused the FBI with conspiracy against him. "I believe and I know that there is a conspiracy to violate my constitutional rights," he stated. "They've come up with fake charges and they've used the law to spired to violate my rights by suppressing evidence and intercepting my mail," he added.

Anderson cried as he stated, "When you can no longer act to defend life, liberty and the fight for justice, then you must rise above man-made laws and defend the will of God."

He said he was not looking for allowing me to be an instrument in this fight."

hit me as being an implied threat," Miss Moody said. She said she welcomed the Epistles as some proof that the Zevallos had been kidnapped and were probably alive. "Fear of the unknown was the worst thing. Once we knew, I did feel better," she said.

She said she said she thanked God for giving her the strength to live, even after reading the Epistles, and noted, "I had my doubts that I would ever see them alive again. My fears were that they were being physically abused. I prayed every day that whoever had them was not torturing them."

Asked how the Zevallos are readjusting after their ordeal, Miss Moody said she does not feel qualified to discuss the feelings of others, but said, "It was a traumatic experience for them and it is just going to take time."

Circle Drive Alley Meeting A public hearing will be conducted at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Granite City Township Building, 2800 Delmar Ave., concerning a proposal to vacate the alley between Circle Drive and 29th Street.

The hearing will determine if residents object to the alley being closed and possibly offered for use to two bordering homeowners.

WILLING TO HELP. Helen King and Earl Hogan, Venice Park District commissioner, enthusiastically discuss their program to distribute free meals in the Venice-Newport area. (Press-Record photo)

Venice Park District commissioner, delivered the meals to Kirkpatrick Homes and was bothered by the conditions he witnessed.

"The people were so happy to get the lunch," he said. "By their expressions, you could tell they needed it."

He found a demand for meals in Anchorage. From two families in the Venice-Newport area and the North Granite area as well.

Mrs. King said, after the dinner, "Earl (Hogan) said we should get together and do something like this for the community. And I said, 'That's a good idea.'"

Later, an urgent appeal for food and clothing from two families received by Rev. Williams sealed the group's intentions.

Anderson to serve

Anderson concluded by asking persons in the courtroom to bow their heads and listen as he closed his eyes and recited the Lord's Prayer. Several of Anderson's children were present, and one of his younger daughters cried any case, Judge Beatty said, "I am in no way condoning or approving what you did."

Judge Beatty ordered the sentences to be served consecutively. Anderson and his lawyer are planning an appeal on the grounds that Anderson was never justifiably convicted on the "fake charges" of violating interstate commerce.

Schoenberg indicated that he may be granted an appeal within six months. Anderson's wife, Margaret, said that she felt the sentencing was too harsh, but that she was looking forward to the appeal. "He (Anderson) told us to go on and find our own happiness," she said. "But we just can't be happy without him."

As Anderson was led away, he was asked about his opinion of the sentencing and replied, "I think it's a raw deal, but that's life."

Miss Moody said she was disappointed that Don Benny Anderson, who was convicted of being one of the three kidnappers, was given only 30 years imprisonment by U.S. District Judge William Beatty of Granite City, instead of the maximum 40 years.

She added, "Although my initial reaction was disappointment, I feel Judge Beatty is a very just man and I trust his judgment."

"Our town is so small, nobody should be hungry," Hogan said, reaffirming his belief that we are our neighbors' keepers. "If neighbors would just kind of check on neighbors," he said, perhaps no one would go to bed hungry."

He encourages other communities, including Granite City and Madison, to get similar meal programs going, since this one will be aimed at the Venice-Newport area. The program is tentatively due to end on Good Friday, April 1, after heating bills have lessened.

"It seems like people do better in summer, but, if they need something in the summer, we'll continue in the summer, too," Hogan pledged.

Judge Beatty ordered the sentences to be served consecutively. Anderson and his lawyer are planning an appeal on the grounds that Anderson was never justifiably convicted on the "fake charges" of violating interstate commerce.

Schoenberg indicated that he may be granted an appeal within six months. Anderson's wife, Margaret, said that she felt the sentencing was too harsh, but that she was looking forward to the appeal. "He (Anderson) told us to go on and find our own happiness," she said. "But we just can't be happy without him."

As Anderson was led away, he was asked about his opinion of the sentencing and replied, "I think it's a raw deal, but that's life."

Steeler grapplers win C'ville regional; qualify six

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
of the Press-Record

COLLINSVILLE — Granite City North's wrestling team easily hurdled their first obstacle Saturday in their quest for a state championship by winning the Collinsville Regional.

A state championship? Too soon to talk about it? The Steelers don't think so.

"The state championship is something we've been talking about," said North coach Walt Whitaker.

"I don't think it's out of our reach or too soon to talk about it. If we can get a handful of these guys out of the sectional, I think we've got a chance," Whitaker said.

Case in point: Last year, Civic Memorial had just two grapplers in the state tournament and the Eagles finished fourth, just a few points out of third.

Both of these athletes by virtue of their victories, which eventually led to division championships, accumulated enough points for the strong CM point standing.

It's conceivable that North can win on points, even if they don't have a state champion. That's what Whitaker hopes to capitalize.

His rationale is simple. The more North qualifies, the more points the Steelers can accumulate toward the state championship.

The Steelers went a long way Saturday towards convincing those at the Collinsville Regional of North's intentions.

North qualified nine grapplers for this weekend's Granite City South Sectional, the second leg and final leg before state competition Feb. 25 and 26.

These nine either won or finished second in the 12 weight classes.

But even in the most decisive victories, there are some casualties. One such casualty Saturday was North's 155 pound Bruce Widel.

Going into Saturday's competition, Widel was undefeated, posting a perfect 34-0 record. That was before the 155-pound championships.

Widel held a comfortable 12-5 lead over Edwardsville's Eric Brown going into the final two minutes of the match.

But, just seconds into that final period, he aggravated a knee he had twisted a week ago. The injury turned Widel from the offensive to the defensive.

Three times he staved off Brown's attempts to pin him in the waning seconds. The end result was Brown's comeback.

The Edwardsville grappler, whose only loss was to Widel earlier in the season, went on to upset the top seed 15-13.

second place finish, however, still qualifies the 155-pound blonde for this weekend's sectional and very possibly another meeting with Brown.

"Bruce got caught in the final two minutes," Whitaker said. "You can't say much. Brown came back strong. It was a good match. Bruce's knee locked up," he said.

In short, the Steelers were clearly the dominant force Saturday, racking up 164 points, outdistancing second place Edwardsville by 36½ points. And more than doubling Roxana's third place point total of 74½ points.

Most all of the championship matches were excellent. Most were close, while others were lopsided, lacking even scoring.

Three such matches involved Steeler grapplers.

At 98 pounds, North's Colin Davis, 30-1, defeated Triad's John Sues (18-8) in the semifinals Saturday morning.

Because of his top seed, Davis received a bye into the semis.

It took the heady Steeler grappler just 2:13 to send Sues to the showers.

In the championship, Davis had an equally easy time with Roxana's Brad Eller (13-7). Davis led Eller 7-0 before he managed a second period pin at 2:28 for the championship.

Another one-sided championship match involved North's Rod Unger. Unger, 32-0, pinned Triad's Tim Singler just 58 seconds into the second period.

The third decisive Steeler came at the hands of North's John Morris. Morris, 30-0, the hottest thing since Tabasco, twisted, tied and nearly maimed Jerseyville's Duane Montgomery in the semis and Edwardsville's Kent Giles in the championship bout. Both matches ended in second pins for the brawny 185 pounder.

In all the Steelers grabbed five of 12 championships. In addition to Davis, Unger and Morris, North's Greg Nemeth and Ken Patterson grabbed top honors in 105 and 138 pounds respectively.

In 105 pound championship, Nemeth had to battle more than just Roxana's Shawn Zippich, 28-4.

Nemeth jumped to a 6-3 second period lead, but in the final period, the junior grappler suffered severe stomach cramps. He waived, holding his stomach.

The hamburger he dined for supper prior to the match played havoc with REGIONAL CHAMPS. Granite City North's wrestling team won the Collinsville Class AA Wrestling Regional Saturday, outdistancing second place Edwardsville by 36 and a half points.

Balance competition lifts East to regional win

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

O'FALLON — The O'Fallon Class AA wrestling regional was tailor-made for Belleville East this year.

"I thought the only way we could win the regional this year was if everyone was beating everyone else," said Urban Baum the Lancer grappler coach.

Indeed, the balanced field at O'Fallon kept each other in check, and the Lancers did come out on top. Barry Schmitt said, "If we would have won a few of the close ones, we could have had enough points to win it or finish closer than we did."

Dowdy's and Brown's losses figured into the final results, but so did losses by Jeff Cotter, Sean McGovern and Henry Brown in various stages of the competition.

Cotter, 98, lost to Althoff's Joe Williams 7-4 in the third place match. Cotter gave Williams, who lost to Cahokia's Bryan Patterson 9-8 in the semifinals for his first loss of the year, all he could handle until Williams scored late takedown which clinched the match.

At 112, McGovern lost a 10-8 decision to East St. Louis' Sylvester Donbry. A late takedown also clinched the third place match for Donbry.

In a 145 first round match, Brown lost a 13-12 tie to the Lancers' Greg Hamilton, who went on to finish third at that weight class.

"I was very pleased that we qualified as many as we did, but there were some disappointments as well," Schmitt said. "All of the points you lose during a meet add up to a lot in a close meet like this was."

The biggest surprise for South was the performance of Sparks. The freshman pinned Arnone Weston of East St. Louis in 1:30 to take third place at 119.

Another freshman, Mike Fenoglio, was fourth after losing a 4 decision to Paul Levy of Belleville East.

"The experience here really did the younger wrestlers some good," Schmitt said.

Hitchcock barely edged Gary Hickman of East St. Louis 8-7 to gain third at heavyweight. Hitchcock gained a takedown in the last seconds of the bout to get the berth.

Belleville East gained three champions, Bartle, Brad Walker (34-1-1 at 52), and Vince Clark at 112. In addition, East had two second place finishers and two third place finishers.

Trojanettes edged by Highland, finish second

HIGHLAND — The Madison Trojanettes had to settle for second best again at the Highland St. Paul girls' basketball tourney.

Madison, which finished second to Althoff in last year's championship game, lost to Highland 46-43 in the title game of this year's tournament Saturday.

The Trojanettes were 18 of 45 from the field during the game, but Madison hit a cold spot in the third quarter which cost them the lead.

"We just let them back in the game," Madison coach

Carol Cole said. "We just didn't capitalize when the big girl wasn't there. We were taking the shots, but they weren't going in."

The game was very tight from the very beginning and the score was tied at halftime.

"It was the kind of game in which whoever had the ball last would win the game," Cole said. "If we would have had another 20 seconds on the clock, we could have won the game."

Another key turning point was when Madison's

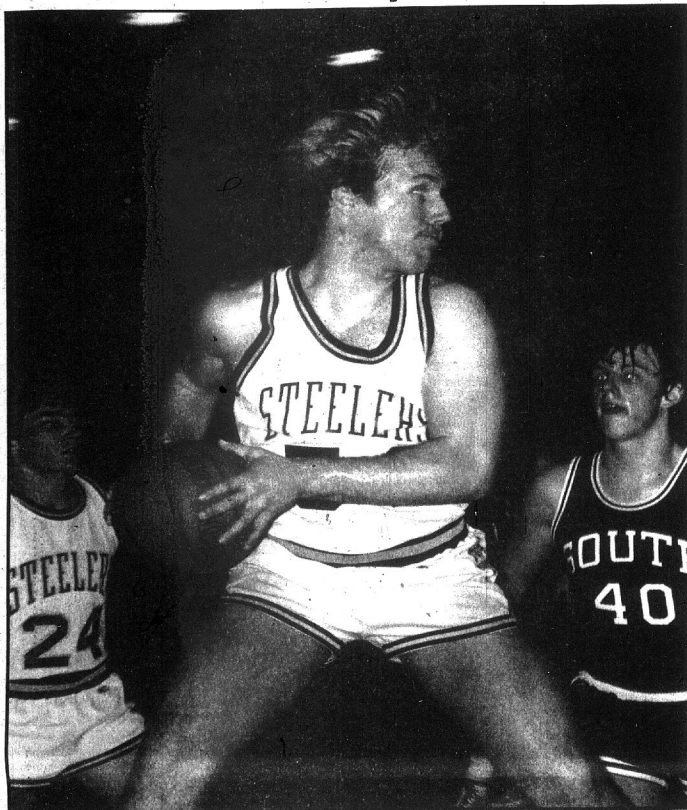

Stephanie Walker reentered her ankle with a 1:49 left in the game. "Stephanie was playing a very good game. One of Highland's girls charged into her, and no foul was called. Her injury might have affected the outcome of the game," Cole said.

Regina Banks led Madison with 18 points and Tina Voegelte led Highland with 14 points, and Cheryl Rehliemper added 10 points for the Bulldogs.

Madison is now 11-3 this season.

Final match-up results in Warrior cage victory

PULLING IT DOWN. Granite City North's Daren DePew covers this rebound during Saturday evening's North-South basketball game. The GRANITE CITY — It was the end of a rivalry. Next year both Granite City North and South will be consolidated into one high school and the cross-town rivalry will be no more.

In this, the last match-up, the South Warriors bested the North Steelers 50-44 in a battle that showed off two tough defenses and some individual offensive wizardry.

That offensive magic was displayed by South senior Pat Linhart. Linhart hit 25 points to lead South to their second victory over the Steelers this season.

The scoring started slow as both teams felt each other out. The defenses were tight, both teams starting in zones and South starting with a full-court press.

South broke the ice first, and with the help of their press, which began bothering North, took a modest lead at the end of the first period, 19-6.

To start the second quarter, South immediately scored, increasing their lead to eight but a scoring spurt mounted by North's Scott Cant and Brian Levin cut that lead quickly to three, 14-11.

Then Trittschuh canned a 15-foot jumper to cut the lead to one, 14-12. That's when the Pat Linhart show began.

First Linhart hit a layup, then an 18-foot jumper. Cant scored an inside bucket to break up the streak but Linhart went at it again, hitting another 18-footer, then a pair of 20 footers. In all Linhart hit ten of his team's 14 points in the period.

The hot streak by Linhart could have been countered by North if the Steelers had hit some of their free-throws. In the second quarter alone, the Steelers missed five free-throws, and four were the first halves of one-and-ones. The Steelers' charity stripe failures enabled the Warriors to go into the locker room at halftime with a nine point lead, 26-17.

Although they were down by nine, North was still in the game. For South, Brian Pithers, Barry Grote and Paul Macios had three fouls apiece and one would suspect they would have to be cautious for awhile in the second half, but that didn't prove to be the case.

South roared out in the second half, scoring immediately off the tip with

Granite North Steelers

Pithers hitting a layup. Tate countered with a 15-footer but then the Linhart show started up again.

Behind the hot shooting of Linhart, the Warriors built their lead to 16 points midway through the third period, 35-19. At the end of the third quarter, South led, 37-23.

Trailing by 14, North coach Bill Ohlendorf changed strategy, switching from the zone, which had been ineffective in stopping Linhart, to an active man-to-man.

It worked. DePew was charged with guarding the red-hot Linhart and only allowed the South senior four points in the final period.

North cut the Warrior lead to ten and Junior Art Williams came into the game. Williams had been starting early in the season, but broke his ankle back in December. Williams hit two quick long-range jumpers, bringing the Steelers within six, 41-35.

Behind the inside scoring of Cant and the baseline shooting of DePew, the Steelers closed the gap to two with just over a minute remaining, 42-40.

In one of the biggest plays of the game, Linhart shot a 15-footer and Cant went high for the rebound but came down off-balance, falling to the floor. He was charged with traveling. The inbounds pass came to Linhart and he canned a 10-foot fadeaway to put the Warriors on top, 44-40.

The Steelers brought the ball up court and Williams shot from the deep corner, hitting the side of the backboard. The rebound went to South and Barry Grote was fouled bringing the ball down. He nailed the one-and-one, bringing the score to 46-40 with only 35 seconds remaining.

At the North end, Tate was fouled. Free-throws continued to haunt North as he missed the first of the one-and-one.

South's Tom Admittis came off the bench to provide some additional ball handling for South and was fouled. He fed both halves of his one-and-one. With :17 seconds remaining, it looked as though it was all over for North.

But the Steelers had a little bit left. DePew hit from the deep corner and Brian Levin stole the inbounds pass and nailed an 18-footer to cut the score to 48-44, but there were only five seconds left on the clock.

The inbounds pass came to Linhart who was immediately fouled. He stepped up to the line and hit both ends of the bonus, giving South the 50-44 decision.

According to South coach Don Deterding, "The key to the ball game was on the backboards," he said. "They were limited to only one shot on offense."

Deterding credited the North's change in defense for the comeback. "It was the fact that in a zone we stand and move the basketball, he said. "When they went to the man-to-man we continued to stand around. We lost some of our poise."

Ohlendorf knew what caused the downfall of his Steelers. "We didn't shoot free-throws in crucial situations," he said. "Shooting free-throws is just positive concentration, relaxation. Our inability to shoot free-throws shows our inability to shoot period."

According to Deterding, one additional asset he has assisted greatly in downing the rival Steelers. "He probably doesn't get much credit," Deterding began. "I'm just glad Barry Grote is on our team. When it was crucial, he broke the press."

Linhart led all scorers with 25 and Trittschuh and Levin led the Steelers with 12 each.

Pioneers slip past Devils

By MICHAEL BARTELS
of the Press-Record

E. ST. LOUIS — The whistle was quick all night. From the beginning of the game, it was obvious that both teams would have to dig deep to keep their composure; the officials wanted to play too.

The Venice Red Devils kept their composure, showing the class club they are, but it wasn't enough to overcome the biggest handicap of all, the officials. Venice dropped the contest to the Pioneers of East St. Louis Assumption, 52-50.

Normally a coach doesn't blame officials; he shoulders the blame himself, or points to errors in strategy or a weakness in his club.

But this time, Venice coach Ken Perkins refused to accept any blame and refused to put any on his kids. The reason for this defeat was all too obvious; his team was robbed of the victory, pure and simple.

After the game, Perkins summed up his feelings in three short words, "We won it."

Perkins, who is known for his consistently calm manner and total composure, said, "In all the time I've been connected with basketball, that's the worst called game I've ever seen, UNBELIEVABLE."

And unbelievable it was.

The Assumption Pioneers are a talented club, and tall. Many are football players and very good athletes, quick on their feet and with their hands, but the Red Devils are quicker. Venice has a class act.

The officials showed early the kind of game it was to be, whistling eight turnovers in the first two minutes, four for traveling and four for carrying the ball. With 2:21 remaining in the first quarter, both teams were in the bonus situation, and with seconds left in the period the Pioneers led by eight. Eddie Salmond led both ends of a one-and-one to bring Venice within six at the end of the period.

Early in the game, Assumption went to their big gun inside, Derrick Berry. The shorter Red Devils were hard pressed to stop the Pioneer big man and Assumption went up by as much as 19 in the first half. If the Red Devils were to have a chance in this one they would have to stop Assumption inside.

In the third quarter, Venice began to do just that. The full-court press the Devils were using began to hamper Pioneer efforts to get the ball up the floor. The Devils stayed in the game but were still down by eight at the beginning of the final period.

To start off the final stanza, Venice was awesome with their press. In the first minute of play, Venice outscored Assumption 9-2, cutting the eight point lead to only one and at 6:16 the Red Devils took the lead, 43-42.

From this point on the game became a see-saw battle, with Venice holding the advantage until the last minute. With 2:21 left, Venice held a two-point lead, 48-46.

Moments later, Tighe gave Assumption back the lead with a three-point play.

With a less than a minute remaining, Assumption held a two-point lead. Venice kept up the pressure with the press, setting up the trap in the corner at the half-line.

Keith Marchbanks was positioned at the out-of-bounds line near half-court.

Clifton Yancey took a pass, turned, took a dribble and bowled over Marchbanks. Both crowds expected a charge. The call went against Marchbanks.

Only seconds later, the press forced another turnover and William Watts took the ball the length of the court, moved around three Assumption players, scoring a layup. A late whistle called Watts for carrying the ball.

The ball went back to Assumption again. The Pioneers led the game by two and had the ball. On the Pioneer side of the half-line, the Red Devils again had an Assumption player trapped. The crowd was wild and Watts stole the pass. The official called a foul on the trap and Watts continued down the court layup but didn't shoot because he knew the play was whistled dead.

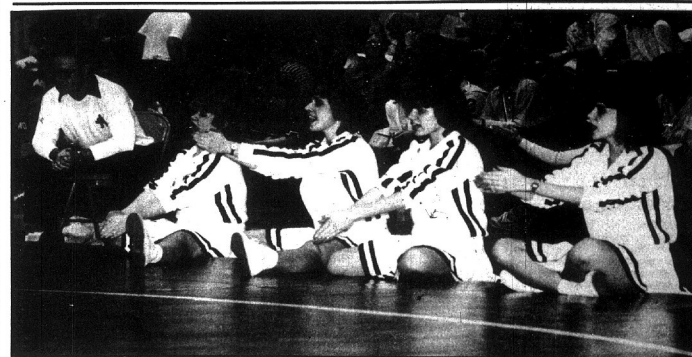

The referee slapped him with a technical foul for, "delay of game."

Assumption hit all three awarded shots: the one-and-one on the foul and the technical, and received the ball out-of-bounds. The game was now out of reach and the Red Devils came up on the short end of the stick. Assumption went home with their gift, a victory.

Only seconds after the game ended Assumption coach Greg King asked coach Perkins, "We're still friends aren't we?" Perkins, trying to remain a gentleman, let some of his bitterness about the farce he had just witnessed slip, saying, "It's going to be hard. It's going to be real hard."

Trojans down Warriors 82-54

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — As long as the Granite City South Warriors can get to the ball to Pat Linhart, the Warriors can usually stay with any opponent.

If the Warriors can't find Linhart, the Warriors can usually expect the worst to happen.

South had it both ways Friday, but most of the time, the Warriors couldn't find Linhart. The result was an 82-54 loss to Madison at Memorial Gymnasium.

"Pat's got to get his hand on the ball if we're going to score a lot of points," South coach Don Deterding said. "We've got to have him scoring for us to win."

The problem for the Warriors was that the only quarter Linhart got his hands on the ball constantly was in the first quarter. When Linhart had the ball, positive things happened for South.

Linhart scored 11 points in the first quarter to lead South to a 18-15 lead over the Trojans. During the quarter, Linhart missed only one of his six shots.

The reason why Linhart was so successful was Linhart could set up camp on the left post with few distractions from the Madison defense. Not only was Linhart making the close range shots, he was making 10-to-15 foot jumpers from that area.

Once Madison coach Larry Graham found the key to keeping the ball away from Linhart, Madison found the key to putting the Warriors away.

"We became more alert to what Linhart was doing," Graham said. "The guy was hitting them from outside, so we put someone a little bit closer to him so he would have the easy outside shot."

The second thing the Trojans did to counter the offensive threat of Linhart was putting more pressure on the rest of the Warriors so they couldn't get the ball to him as easily.

"Pat probably got eight of his points that quarter on long passes," Deterding said. "When they started pressing more, we started to make more mistakes. Their quickness made us either panic or start telegraphing our passes."

For the game, the Warriors made 16 turnovers as compared to 12 for Madison.

"It seems like more than that," Deterding said. "Of course when you lose like we did, you tend to look more at what you did than what your opponent did."

Finally, the Trojans improved their shooting in the final three quarters. In the first quarter, the Trojans made only seven of 20 shots for 35 percent. In the remaining three quarters, Madison made 25 of 51 shots for 49 percent.

It took a while for Madison's transformation to take place, but when it happened, South couldn't do a thing to stop

The first big event that gave the game to Madison came in the final minute of the first half. Linhart made a basket which cut Madison's lead to five points. At one time, the Trojans had an eight point lead in the second quarter. However, the Trojans' Maurice Silas scored to put the lead back to seven.

Madison's John Hughes fouled Barry Grote, but the South guard missed his free throw. Meanwhile, Madison got the rebound, but South took it away.

However Silas stole the ball from the Warriors and threw up a "Hall Mary" shot from half court. His shot hit nothing but net, and the Trojans led 37-28.

Madison put the game out of reach in the third quarter. The Trojans' press kept South from scoring until Linhart made two free throws with 2:38 left in the quarter. Meanwhile, Madison scored 13 unanswered points to take 50-28 lead prior to the free throws.

Although Linhart didn't get the opportunity to score often in the last three quarters, he led all scorers with 26 points. However, no other Warrior made it in double figures.

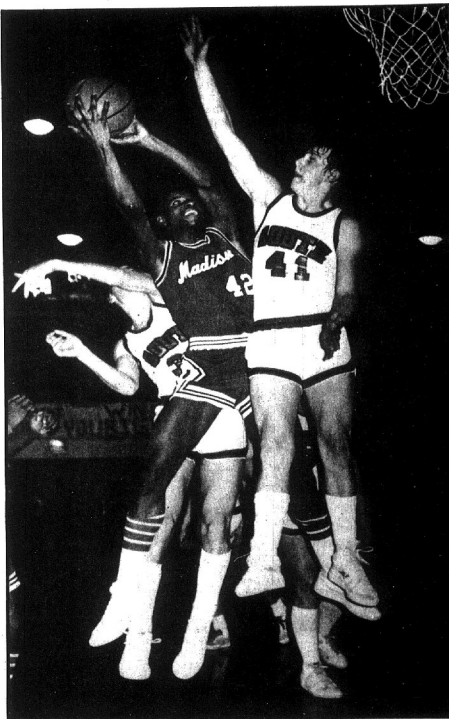

"They're not that bad of a ball club at times," Graham said of South. "They're also used to getting beat. If we could get in front and sustain the lead, I knew they would have a hard time coming back."

Deterding said, "They just wore us down. They just stopped us in the second half, and they beat us bad on the defensive boards. As bad as we looked against the press, our lack of rebounding hurt us too. We don't pursue the rebounds like we should."

So did the Trojan's scoring attack. Leroy Pryor and Victor Valentine led the Trojans with 22 points each. Center Terry Hamilton scored 11 points, and Hughes added 10 points.

Madison, 19-4 this season, is idle until Friday. The Trojans travel to Teutopolis Friday and close the regular season at home Saturday against Lebanon.

Maxvill is new Famer

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor

BELLEVILLE — Dal Maxvill, the St. Louis Cardinal shortstop who was a member of the world champion Cardinals in 1964 and 1967, is among the latest inductees in the News-Democrat's Sports Hall of Fame.

Maxvill and three others were inducted into the Hall of Fame exclusively for Southern Illinois athletes Sunday evening at Fischer's Restaurant.

Maxvill was nominated to the fame by a popular opinion poll that the Belleville newspaper held in the fall.

The slick-fielding shortstop-second baseman was on three Cardinal National League championship teams and two World Championship squads. He set a National League record for the highest lifetime fielding average (.978) by a shortstop with 10 or more years service.

Maxvill hit better than 400 as a member of the Granite City High School squad and in college at Washington University. He spent only two years in the minors before starting a 14-year major league career.

Other inductees included Wirt Downing, legendary football, wrestling and track coach at East St. Louis Senior High for 50 years, Ron Stein, basketball and baseball star at O'Fallon High School who earned scholarships for both sports to Northwestern University in 1955.

Stein, who was stricken with polio, excelled on the international level, winning 12 gold medals in the track and field 1960 and 1964 World Paralympic Games in Rome and Tokyo.

The fourth and final inductee was Bob "Bulley" Turley, a hard-throwing righthander won the major league's highest pitching honor — the Cy Young award — in 1955 for his 21-7 record and 185 strikeouts while playing with the New York Yankees. He is a native of East St. Louis.

The four join such area sports greats as Collinsville's Virgil Fletcher, Edwardsville's George Musso and Belleville's Ray Sonnenberg.

Several St. Louis professional athletes and media personnel were in attendance. Among them include the St. Louis Football Cardinals' wide receiver Pat Tilley and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat's Rober L. Burnes, executive sports editor.

Devils romp Worden 106-26

The Venice Red Devils recovered nicely from Friday's upset victory against East St. Louis Assumption. The Devils shot 64 percent, one of its best performances of the season, to defeat Worden 106-26.

The Red Devils jumped to an early 21-6 first quarter lead then never looked back. In all, six Red Devils were in double figures; Bobby Ervin 18, Eddie Salmund 17, Micah Wiley 14, Phillip White 11, Keith Marchbanks and Terrell Ware each had 10.

The conference win improves Venice's record to 19-4. The Worden Trojans are winless.

The Red Devils are off until Friday when they take on St. Paul in Venice.

Park district umpires meet

The Granite City Park District will conduct a meeting for those persons wishing to umpire during this summer's activity.

The meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 15, at the Brown Recreational Center will review the American Softball Association (ASA) rules and the park district's rules as well as the interpretation of those rules. The meeting is open to those persons who officiated last year as well as newcomers.

For further information, persons should call John Lakin, recreation supervisor, at 877-3059.

Center sponsors hoop tournaments

The Christian Community Center, located at 2801 Marshall, is sponsoring four basketball tournaments during February with a championship tournament slated for the second week in March.

According to Rev. Jeff Smith, director of the facility, the center will host four tournaments, Feb. 12, 19, 26 and 27, with the first and second place winners advancing to a championship tournament on March 12.

To register or for more information about the full-court basketball tournaments, persons should contact Rev. Smith at either 877-4438 or 931-3515.

Cougar cage game televised

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville men's basketball team will host Chicago State University, the top-rated National Association of Intercollegiate athletics, at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Edwardsville High School gymnasium.

As a Valentine's Day special, all couples will be admitted to the game free.

For those who miss the game, it will be shown on South-Western Cable Channel 1 at 8 p.m. Tuesday, according to Steve Weller, SIUE sports information director. SIUE is 8-18 prior to the game.

Graham gets second in mat tournament

Belleville Area College student Doug Graham of Granite City took second place in heavyweight at the BAC Invitational Wrestling Tournament, Saturday, Jan. 29.

The wrestling team placed second with a score of 6-0 points. The team was right behind first-place winner Lincoln College with 70. Third place went to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville with 41 points.

Other individual winners were Steve Gauch of Belleville, first place at 134 pounds; Jim Tiemann of Belleville, first place at 150 pounds; David Knoebel of Belleville, second place at 177 pounds; Robert Rogers of East St. Louis, second place at 190 pounds; Jeff Pool of Harrisburg, third place at 142 pounds; Bob Brewer of O'Fallon, third place at 167 pounds; Bobby McDaniel of Columbia, third place at 126 pounds; and Larry Duzey of East St. Louis, fourth place at heavyweight.

Prefers handicapped coverage

I receive your newspaper every week here in Hillsboro. I was from the city of Madison for many years and I really do like reading about my old home in the Tri City Area.

There is something that I would like to see in your paper. It is about the crippled and handicapped people around your area that are involved in sports. I know that they have a lot of fun in their sports and I also know that they would like to see the articles in the paper about them too.

If you need any more information on these sports, please contact my mother Kaye Hahne in Madison. My mother is very involved in these people and I know that she would love to see things like this in your Press-Record. She also needs help with their basketball team.

So if you could please print this and help her find some help with these people.

Thank You,
Charlie Hahne

Club sponsors Walleyball tournament

The Granite City Racquetball Club and Nautilus Fitness Center is sponsoring a walleyball tournament on Saturday, Feb. 19.

The co-ed, double-elimination tournament is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. A minimum of two girls must be on all teams.

First and second place individual trophies will be awarded.

Essentially, walleyball is volleyball played on a racquet court.

For further information or to register a team, persons should contact the club at 821-6800.

The Granite City Racquetball Club and Nautilus

Fitness Center is located at 3901 Stearns, just off Pontoon Road.

Olympic soccer timetable set

The Federation Internationale de Football Association, soccer's world governing body and organizers of the Olympic soccer competition, has announced the timetable for the 1984 Olympic Games soccer tournament.

In informing the USSF of the dates for the final round, FIFA indicated that the competitive format would follow the same as during the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow.

There will be four groups of four teams during the first round. Each team will play three matches in round-robin competition. With the first round scheduled for July 22-Aug. 3, 1984, the quarterfinals, with the top two teams in each group competing in direct elimination, will be held Aug. 4 and 5. The semifinals will be staged on Aug. 8, the third place match Aug. 10 and the finals on Aug. 11.

Bi-State limiting types of IDs for elderly, handicapped

The Bi-State Development Agency has announced that beginning April 4, 1983, only three types of identification will be accepted for elderly and handicapped reduced fares on the buses.

Elderly persons 65 years of age or older will be required to use their Medicare cards as identification. Bi-State has accepted Medicare cards for reduced fare identification since 1980. Those few elderly who are not eligible for Medicare cards can apply to Bi-State for an orange identification card, which also is valid. The orange card bears an expiration date of Jan. 1, 1986. No other elderly identification cards will be accepted after April 4, 1983.

Handicapped persons will be eligible for the reduced fare on buses only by showing the tan Bi-State identification card. The tan card bears an expiration date of Jan. 1, 1986. Those handicapped persons who do not already have a tan card are being urged to make application to Bi-State well ahead of the April 4 implementation date. A physician's certification of the handicap is required.

Michael Setzer, general manager of transit for Bi-State, said that "Since the program's inception in 1974, eight different varieties of cards have been issued. Many of the older cards still are being used and, since there was no expiration date on most of these cards, and no limit to the number a person could obtain, some are being used by persons who are not eligible for reduced fares. The absence of Setzer's continued existence of the program for those individuals who are entitled to reduced fares. It is not fair to our other passengers, nor can we afford to let this abuse of the reduced fare program continue."

Setzer urged persons who may need a new card to make application to Bi-State

Planning begins for Labor parade

Preliminary plans have been made by the parade committee of the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council to again sponsor a Labor Day parade in Granite City.

Robert Means, United Steelworkers of America subdistrict director, and David J. Kins, president of Steelworkers Local 4804, are co-chairmen of the event, scheduled for Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5.

The 37-member committee, with 22 union locals represented, has decided on the same route and program as last year. Additional plans will be announced through the summer as they are finalized.

Lecture on humanities Friday

"The Humanities: Their Essence, Nature, Future" will be the subject of the lecture by Albert William Levi in the 25th Anniversary series sponsored by the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Humanities.

In his acceptance of the invitation, Levi noted that he took the theme of the series, "The Changing Role of the Humanities," very seriously. Levi will speak in Lovejoy Auditorium, Friday evening, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Until his recent retirement from Washington University in St. Louis, Levi was the David May Distinguished University Professor in the Humanities. He taught at universities in America and abroad and is the recipient of numerous honors and distinguished lectureships. Regarded by critics as "an eloquent and influential writer," he has written a number of important books, including "Philosophy and the Modern World," which received the Phi Beta Kappa Ralph Waldo Emerson Award in 1960.

Born in Indianapolis, Ind., Levi attended Dartmouth prior to receiving his advanced degree from the University of Chicago in 1938. He has been a fellow of the American Philosophical Association and the Rockefeller Foundation. He received three Fulbright fellowships at the Universities of Vienna, Munich, and at Graz, where he was awarded the Silver Medal Pro Meritis. The general public is being invited to attend Professor Levi's lecture. Admission is free. For further information, interested persons may contact William J. Embloom at 1-692-2185.

Powell heads Energy Assistance Foundation

The Energy Assistance Foundation today announced that Harold E. Powell has been named executive director of the not-for-profit organization.

The announcement was made by John Cheeks, president of the Foundation, which was established in December to provide help in the management of utility bills.

Powell, 56, of Decatur, Ill., retired as plant manager of The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company plant in Decatur last November after more than 35 years with the company.

The Foundation's objective is to find programs recommended by local organizations throughout the territory served by Illinois Power Company, which can eliminate the causes of high utility bills for elderly, handicapped and financially distressed persons. The Foundation will solicit and fund programs to address causes of high electric and gas bills — such as lack of home improvements or poor energy use habits — rather than just pay utility bills of persons.

The foundation's work will begin in selected "target" Illinois Power Company service areas yet to be identified. Powell will contact organizations in those areas to solicit proposed solutions to problems in the local communities. Subsequently, organizations and communities throughout Illinois Power Company's service areas will be contacted by the foundation.

Energy Assistance Foundation was launched with an initial grant of $50,000 from Illinois Power Company. The utility also will match other contributions made to the foundation, up to an additional $250,000.

Organizations of individuals interested in making donations or providing support may contact the foundation at Box A1749, Decatur, Ill. 62525.

Referral system for crop insurance offered

"Names of certified agents who have completed the Agent Certification Training and testing program will be available at a toll-free 800 telephone number in 1983" according to Leo Crawford, director for the Springfield Region of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

"The individual farm yield guarantee and other program changes make immediate access to a trained agent necessary," Leo Crawford added. "Absentee landowners needing to locate a qualified agent in the same county where the land is located will find this service especially helpful," Crawford said.

"Use of the 800 number is simple. Just dial 1-800-447-4700 and ask for agent referral. The operator will ask for name, address, and the Zip Code where the land is physically located. With this information the names of three certified agents in that area will be randomly and automatically selected and given to the caller. Farmers can be assured that all agents listed will be either certified by FCIC or authorized by a insured company," Crawford said.

"Agents who qualify at a later date will be added to the listing as they are trained and ratified. In addition to the toll-free number listing, the ASCS offices will post a list of all certified and authorized agents," he concluded.

REBECCA SHAVER
Rebecca Shaver
wins title

The title of Miss Winter Wonderland was awarded to Rebecca Lynn Shaver during competition held in Edwardsville. She is the daughter of Ron and Phyllis Shaver of Granite City.

She received a first place trophy for dress modeling, sportswear modeling and a second place honor for talent. The youngster performed a song and dance routine entitled, "Check It Out."

She is 6-years old and attends St. Elizabeth Catholic School, is enrolled at the Salem School of Dance and is a member of the Dance Company '83 at the school. Captains Clipper was her sponsor.

The following week, she participated in the Little Miss Jamestown Mall preliminary competition and was among the "Sweet 16" finalists chosen to compete in the finals.

MEETING FRIDAY AT ST. BONIFACE

The Southern Illinois Divorced and Separated Catholics will meet on Friday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in Eckhard Hall at St. Boniface Catholic Church in Edwardsville.

The Rev. Maurice Quilligan will be the guest speaker for the evening. The public is invited to attend, according to a spokesman for the organization.

you can BANK on it!

DREW KARANDJEFF
President

Q. What effect will the recently passed legislation concerning interest rates have on individual banking customers?

A. This new law recently passed by Congress, and signed into law by the President will have wide sweeping effects on the banking industry. The legislation is, basically, an additional move toward deregulation of the industry. The results of this new legislation will be of benefit to banks, their individual customers, businesses within the community and the community in general. For example, banks are now able to offer an investment instrument without an interest ceiling, competitive with high-earning money market funds. Another incentive to purchasing money-market type funds from your local banks is the funds are insured and the money remains in the community... unlike money market funds offered by large corporations in some distant city. Come in and visit with us about the new possibilities of earning more interest on your savings or investment, along with the comfort of having that money insured.

Organ Club enrolls two

The Metro-East Organ Club met last week at the home of Mr. Frances David in Collinsville. Fifteen members and three guests were present.

Mrs. Barbara Williams, president, conducted a business meeting and it was decided to amend the club's constitution or to prepare by-laws. After some discussion on items to be covered, a committee of Mrs. Williams,

Mrs. Betty Ballentine, and Howard Austin was selected to prepare a document before the next meeting.

The topic of "Colors" was selected as the musical game theme for April and music dealing with "Emotions" for May. March's topic, previously selected, is "Wind."

Six persons were able to name all five of the patriotic sketches played by Mrs.

David. The "Name Those Tunes" monthly contest ended in a tie between Mrs. Mary Hartman and Mrs. Evelyn Warren. The topic was "Winter" and there were some interpretations of winter through music.

Angelo Villa, a professional entertainer from St. Louis, played for the group before Mrs. David served refreshments.

New members present were Mrs. Wilma Eddington of Collinsville and Mrs. Virginia Vandermark from Maryville. Guests present besides Villa were Mrs. Jane DeHekker from California and Mrs. Dorothy Lionberger from Madison. Other members present in addition to those mentioned were Frank David, Mrs. Loretta Siegel, Mrs. Anna Austin, Mrs. Helen DeChiara, Mrs. Bea Black, and Henry Strackeljah.

Wedding fashions and ideas show attracts 350

History of Madison is Old Six Mile program

The Old Six Mile Historical Society held its February meeting at the Madison Recreation Center with about 45 members and guests present. President Don Gargle called the meeting to order and Eldon Outright led the group in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mrs. Georgia Engleke, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Louise Kern, the Madison librarian for 18 years and a past president of the Madison County Historical Society, as well as a current director, who spoke on "Madison."

Mrs. Kern spoke first on the struggles between the French, Spanish, and English to gain control of this area and of the Mound Builders who, in 700 A.D., built dwellings only four miles from Madison. This was the same group that built Mound Mound, now classified as a National Historic Site.

The three Indian tribes in this area were generally peaceful by the time that Illinois became a state. A Wood River family was massacred about the time that Madison County was established.

The first permanent settler in the area was Dr. George Cadwell, who, in 1804, practiced medicine and farmed. Another early settler was Mathew Kerr who has a horse ferry across the Mississippi which ran continuously, except during flood times, until 1910.

The name of Madison was applied to two early settlements — the first, in 1820, was located near present-day Marine. The second was in Chouteau Township and thrived vigorously in the early 1800's. Floods and the river swept it away and now, with the changes in the river's course, the land is completely gone.

In 1887, in an attempt to reduce the costs of bringing coal to the area, the Madison Land Syndicate was formed (also known as the Cool Land Syndicate) to build the Merchants Bridge. Started in 1887, the bridge, for railroads only, was completed in 1890. This same group bought land from Nancy Sippy, costing over $100,000, and laid out the village of Madison.

The first postmaster was George Cody; since there was no post office building, he carried the mail around in his pocket. The first village president was not Charles Sken as some reports state. Mr. Sken was actually a member of the Board of Trustees. He and two other board members later became village presidents. Patrick McCambridge was the first chief of police.

Bruce Champion was the first child born on the town site of Madison; he also was the first child to start school in Madison and continue through to high school graduation.

Mrs. Kern said Madison was once known as the "City of Churches." Between 1891-1894 religious services were held in private homes. The Presbyterian Church was the first one erected in 1891. The circular dome of St. Mary's Catholic Church ranks as the 11th largest of its type in the world. The Madison Baptist Church was started in 1898. Several ethnic churches were established by early settlers who patterned their churches after those in their homelands. Mrs. Kern suggested that the Historical Society should have an entire program on the Madison churches and perhaps have a church tour to see some of the beautiful interiors.

In the early days of the village of Madison, there were all types of problems: lack of housing facilities, no paved streets and no street lights. Sidewalks were made from planks or blocks of wood. When it rained, the sidewalks floated away. When it was dry, youngsters had to dig splinters out of their feet. In 1905, the first street was paved and the first sidewalk laid.

The American Car and Foundry Shops was the main work place, and new immigrants learned "car shops" among their first English words. Many persons came from the Balkan area and the groups congregated in Madison according to their nationalities, a practice which is still in existence today.

In the mid-1890's, there was a race track in Madison built by St. Louis backers. Special trains brought people from St. Louis to go to the races. It lasted only a few years, but it caused Madison to be known as a wide-open town and the Monte Carlo of America.

The first women's club was organized on October 3, 1901, and was the Matron's Literary Club. It is still meeting today, but the number of members keeps getting smaller.

During the floods of 1891 and 1903, most of the early official records of the village were destroyed. Water was up to the ceilings of the rooms in which the records were housed. Water 12 feet high in 1903 did great damage to businesses, homes, etc. Persons even kept ladders on their roofs to use for escaping from the water.

Madison's volunteer fire department bought equipment in 1894 consisting of a hand-drawn fire hose cart costing $250. In 1899 they added a two-horse drawn cart.

Ferdinand Garesche was elected mayor of the village of Madison for 16 consecutive two-year terms. He called Madison "the biggest little village in the world."

Mayor Garesche also referred to his town as the "hub" of the area.

Madison's founded the national Presbyterian Mission Board in Madison and in 1919 led the project. She encouraged the newcomers to learn English and to attend classes to learn to read and write. She taught some of the classes and helped many get their citizenship papers. She wanted to assist them in getting acclimated to the ways of America.

In 1922 the Minerva Reading Club helped organize the Madison Public Library. Mrs. Margaret Harlan served as president of the library board for 42 years. In 1923 there were 2,000 books. In 1933, 4700 books; and today there are about 26,000 books. Lack of room in the present library means that the book collections are "weeded" continually in order to place new books on the shelves.

The speaker said that Madison depended on industry to survive. As a result, it was one of the first communities to feel the depression. The community was completely devastated.

In the 1930's one could look any direction and not see any smoke. "Hoover carts" were used to haul supplies home from the welfare office.

In closing, the speaker mentioned the weather. In 1975-76 we had 33½ inches of snow and it all came in February and March. The audience was cautioned not to think that spring was almost here.

Mrs. Engleke, vice president, reported that she investigated the box of articles that was found in the cornerstone of the old post office. She said that, except for a 1911 penny and two pictures, everything else was ruined. When the box was placed in the cornerstone, it was not sealed shut and everything disintegrated.

Mrs. Engleke spoke of another subject that the Granite City Postmaster showed her. In 1902 Miss Mattie Marshall of Granite City, age 21, was the only woman mail carrier in the United States. On the rural delivery carrier's exam a score of 75 was passing; Miss Marshall scored 95.5. She was the grandniece of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and was the grandmother of Linda Koonig, the secretary of the Old Six Mile Society.

Miss Marshall, driving an enclosed survey, has a 21-mile daily travel schedule and earned $720 a year. Once an attempt was made to hold her up, but she escaped from the men. Another time her team of horses ran away, throwing her out of the survey. She walked about a mile before she caught the horses and continued her mail run. To dimax the tale, Miss Marshall eloped with her boss to Mackinac Island where they were married.

Mrs. Lillian Delpa, membership co-chairman, announced that notices of past-due dues had been sent out and that a drive for new members would be started shortly. Members will be present on Friday nights at local banks in the near future to seek new members.

It was reported by Mrs. Loraine Bischoff that the second annual antique show will be held in St. Elizabeth's cafeteria area on Oct. 22-23.

Jesse Metzger of Granite City has donated a group of Commonweath Magazines covering the years 1923-1965, and Mrs. Genevieve McComis donated a picture of the first Presbyterian Church in Madison.

Refreshments, provided by John Fornsiewicz, were served at the end of the meeting.

The March 7 meeting will be held at Tri-Mor Bowl and Mrs. Clara Schilling will speak on "When the Floods Came." The public is invited to attend and also to become members of the society, it was announced.

CRYSTAL FREEMAN

Former resident captures award

Crystal Freeman, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Freeman of Livingston, formerly of Madison, captured a first place award in the Miss Sweet Heart Pageant held in the Meridian Ballroom at Southern Illinois University, at Edwardsville.

She also won a first place trophy in instate solo, a second in baton and in dress modeling and a third in basic strut.

The youngster also won three trophies in the Miss Winter Wonderland contest held in Edwardville, in the dress and sportswear modeling division and talent.

Chapter collects old eye glasses

Mrs. Rose Schmitt suggested members of the Quad-City American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) collect old eye glasses and donate them to the Lions Club, during a meeting held at Anchorage Recreation Center.

President Virgil Worley opened the meeting with prayer and led the group in repeating the pledge to the flag. Officers then submitted their reports for the month.

The president introduced guest speakers, Miss Ruth Toomey and Mrs. Elna Hoover. Miss Toomey gave a talk on the rules and by-laws of the newly organized chapter and Mrs. Hoover spoke on income taxes.

Mrs. Hoover is the coordinator for the Tax-Aide Program sponsored by AARP.

Elkettes aids Mobile Meals

Members of the Elkettes Club agreed to send a donation to the Mobile Meals project at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, at a monthly meeting of the club held last week.

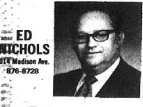

Mrs. Karmyn Edmonds opened the meeting with prayer.

During the business segment the group discussed a revision of the by-laws and finalized plans for a card party scheduled for March 6 at the Elks Lodge. Tickets for the project will cost $5 and after the games, refreshments will be served and prizes awarded, the president noted.

The evening party went to Julie Barnes. Refreshments were served to 42 members by Ginny Johnson and Julie Barnes.

Bethel A.M.E. to hear Rev. Hampton

The Rev. R. J. Hampton, pastor of Visitors A.M.E. Church, 101 Springs National Park, Ark., will be the guest speaker at the Bethel A.M.E. Church, 1035 Market St., Venice, at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 18.

The author of "The Country Preacher Sings" and numerous other books, he sings of the plight of blacks in this country, especially in the south. The Country Preacher Sings is a tribute to Southern black culture, according to the Rev. Samuel Hooks, host pastor.

Rev. Hampton's poetry deals with many aspects of life, from alcoholism to bigotry, from old age to bravery, yet is simple and appeals to the reflective mood of the country. Rev. Hooks explained.

The guest speaker first served as a circuit preacher on a plantation and has since been a presiding elder, a college president, and has twice been honored with doctorate degrees. He was educated at Shorter College, The University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, and the American University, Washington, D.C. He holds a Bachelor Degree from Jackson Theological Seminary and a Master's in Business Administration from the University of Miami.

He is the son of Eddie and Lucille Holmes of Alton, Ill.

Friendly Circle plans bazaar

Tentative plans for the September bazaar at Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church, was the topic of discussion at a monthly meeting of the Friendly Circle Class.

Members gathered in the church hall which was decorated in a Valentine theme for the luncheon meeting hosted by Mrs. Mary Davis. Red and white favors, red tapers and bouquets of roses completed the table appointments.

Mrs. Lucy Testerman gave the invocation and devotions were by Mrs. Millie Sherman.

The business segment was conducted by President Mrs. Evelyn Thompson. She said final arrangements for the autumn bazaar will be announced at a later meeting. The group will meet at the church for the next session on March 10, she noted.

Second child for former residents

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan L. Cowin of Alhambra, formerly of Granite City, are announcing the birth of their second child, a girl on Feb. 1 at Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

The new arrival weighed six pounds, 14 ounces, and has been named Jennifer Nicole. She has a 2-year old sister, Angela Michelle.

The mother is the former Rhonda Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell (Nancy) Hamilton of Granite City. Her paternal grandfather is Ivan B. Cowin of Alhambra.

Beta Nu Chapter enrolls members

Beta Nu Chapter of Phi Tau Omega Sorority, held its meeting at the home of the President, Mrs. Thelma Chesnut, last week. Reports were made on the following activities, a social hostessing by Mrs. Caroline Sanders and Miss Dorothy Hinson held the week before with an Italian theme consisting of dinner and games.

At this meeting two new members were welcomed into the chapter. Mrs. Ollie Derr of Granite City and Mrs. Lettie Kelly Taylor of Collinsville. Also, welcomed back into active membership was Mrs. Shirley Gilcho of Granite City, formerly a member of the Beta Chapter in East St. Louis.

Donations were made to the Venice Crippled Children and to the Madison March of Dimes drives. Members sent 100 tray favors to the Madison County Nursing Home in January shaped like snowmen with candycanes on each, it was noted. Mrs. Frances Cowley reported having 200 crossword puzzle boards ready to take to the Marian V.A. Hospital for the patients. Also, 34,000 cancelled stamps were sent to the Retired Nuns Home in LaCrosse, Wis. for their therapy department.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Chesnut's on Feb. 22, the president added.

DeMolay chili supper Tuesday

The annual chili supper, sponsored by the James Stuart Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will be held Tuesday, Feb. 15, from 11 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 20th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, according to Dave Medley, master counselor of the chapter.

Tickets costing $1.75 may be purchased from any DeMolay or at the door on the day of the fund raising event. The menu will include homemade chili or two hot dogs, homemade pie or cake and a drink. Carry-out orders will also be available, Medley added.

Mining land report

Land used for the mining of coal and all non-fuel minerals during the 51-year period from 1930 through 1980 totaled 5.7 million acres, about 0.25 percent of the U.S. land mass, according to an Interior Department report. It says 2.7 million acres were reclaimed to meet federal or state laws or reconditioned for other land uses.

Policy to dismiss officials on board agenda

The Madison County Board Wednesday at its February meeting will hear a proposed procedure for dismissing appointed officials and, if the resolution passes, a closed hearing on whether to fire James Barton of Granite City, county supervisor of assessments, could begin within two weeks.

The resolution was drafted by the personnel committee and calls for Barton's immediate dismissal. Barton was indicted by a grand jury on charges of bribery, official misconduct and conspiracy.

Because there presently is no county policy for dismissing an appointed official, the issue has bounced back and forth between the board and the personnel committee for several months. While some board members have been outspoken in their desire to see Barton fired, others have been less willing to publicly denounce him.

Under the new proposal, an investigation will be conducted into any board member's request to dismiss an official hired or appointed by the board. A hearing then will be conducted and evidence from both sides presented.

If the dismissal request is made by a board member at a board meeting, a mandatory hearing will be conducted within 30 days.

The Executive Committee will make a recommendation to the board after the Personnel Committee submits its findings.

The county board also is expected to authorize a petition to the circuit court appointing a special state's attorney to investigate allegations of impropriety against Don W. Weber, states attorney.

Charles Burns, board member from Edwardsville, drafted the petition and, if it is approved, he will represent the board in court.

The petition was written after Burns read a letter from Amiel Cuto, a Belleville attorney, that was sent to the board and other county officials. The letter, written after Cuto talked to Madison County Board member and former employee of Weber's office, alleges that Weber is guilty of (among other things) misconduct, conspiracy and theft.

Weber has denied the charges and, in a response letter to Chief Circuit Judge A.A. Mateosian, who also received Cuto's letter, asked

Rep. Wolf assured that state is pursuing toxic waste spraying

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

The Illinois Attorney General's office told State Representative Sam W. Wolf (D-Granite City) that its "efforts to correct" problems created by the spraying of waste oil at the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad yard in Venice by the Jerry Russell Bliss waste hauling firm, "are both continuing and forthright." After inspecting the site on Jan. 20, Wolf wrote Attorney General Neil Hartigan expressing concern about the spraying in April of 1982 and recently received a response letter from Robert V. Shuff Jr., first assistant attorney general.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) received an anonymous tip that the Bliss firm was spraying at the railroad yard. The IEPA succeeded in catching "an employee of the firm as he sprayed," Shuff's letter notes.

Trichloroethylene and heavy metals known to be toxic were found in soil samples taken by the IEPA at the Venice site.

While dioxin was not found in the samples, Wolf's letter said that he and "many individuals familiar with this site are not completely satisfied that sufficiently conclusive tests have been conducted by the EPA to determine the presence of dioxin or other toxic materials."

The letter further suggests that "another inspection" of the site would help "alleviate the concerns of those who either work or live in this general area."

Shuff's letter offers assurance that, "as to the possible existence of dioxin among the sprayed materials, we are satisfied that no such condition exists." Although tests specifically designed to detect dioxin were not conducted, Shuff's letter indicated that such tests are cost prohibitive at "approximately $2,000 per sample."

The IEPA does not have the laboratory capability to test for dioxin but must send away such samples.

The IEPA did "use its own lab facilities to analyze the organic materials found for certain compounds that are known to be present when dioxin also is. These 'indicators' were not found in the Venice material. Thus, from a laboratory viewpoint, IEPA and this office feel confident that dioxin is not involved here."

Shuff continued that Bliss apparently did not spray waste oil containing dioxin after 1978 and the Venice incident occurred after that time.

Charges against Bliss alleging four counts of violating Illinois environmental laws were filed Feb. 4, by the attorney general with the Illinois Pollution Control Board in Chicago.

Shuff's letter, dated Feb. 2, said that Bliss and his attorney had until the end of that week to submit a written settlement agreement to the attorney general or IEPA to avoid refiling of charges.

Earlier charges filed by the attorney general were dropped because the Environmental Protection Act says that any person being charged with violating state environmental law must be informed before action is filed. The defendant also must be allowed a "pre-filing settlement conference." Shuff's letter noted.

Bliss was not notified of the planned action before it was filed. The complaint was withdrawn "without prejudice," meaning it could be refilled later.

A meeting then was conducted "at which the defendants indicated their willingness to admit the violations and satisfy the state's demands in full," Shuff said in the letter.

Bliss also has presented information at hearings being conducted in Missouri to investigate spraying of dioxin-laden oil at numerous sites there. Thus far, Shuff's letter seemed to indicate that the state is dissatisfied with cooperation in achieving a settlement here.

"At no time has the state lessened its efforts to obtain full cooperation from Bliss, et al., for the illegal dumping," Shuff reassured Rep. Wolf in the letter.

The charges against Jerry-Russell Bliss Inc., Bliss himself, Jay Covert, the employee who actually sprayed the Venice site, and the ICG Bliss does not have a license to conduct business in Illinois, the charges say.

The ICG does not have a permit for toxic waste disposal at its Venice site, the charges further state.

The Illinois Pollution Control Board will make a recommendation or take action on the charges, a spokesman for the attorney general said last week.

Bliss also has presented information at hearings being conducted in Missouri to investigate spraying of dioxin-laden oil at numerous sites there. Thus far, Shuff's letter seemed to indicate that the state is dissatisfied with cooperation in achieving a settlement here.

"At no time has the state lessened its efforts to obtain full cooperation from Bliss, et al., for the illegal dumping," Shuff reassured Rep. Wolf in the letter.

The charges against Jerry-Russell Bliss Inc., Bliss himself, Jay Covert, the employee who actually sprayed the Venice site, and the ICG Bliss does not have a license to conduct business in Illinois, the charges say.

The ICG does not have a permit for toxic waste disposal at its Venice site, the charges further state.

The Illinois Pollution Control Board will make a recommendation or take action on the charges, a spokesman for the attorney general said last week.

Charges against Bliss alleging four counts of violating Illinois environmental laws were filed Feb. 4, by the attorney general with the Illinois Pollution Control Board in Chicago.

Shuff's letter, dated Feb. 2, said that Bliss and his attorney had until the end of that week to submit a written settlement agreement to the attorney general or IEPA to avoid refiling of charges.

Earlier charges filed by the attorney general were dropped because the Environmental Protection Act says that any person being charged with violating state environmental law must be informed before action is filed. The defendant also must be allowed a "pre-filing settlement conference." Shuff's letter noted.

Bliss was not notified of the planned action before it was filed. The complaint was withdrawn "without prejudice," meaning it could be refilled later.

A meeting then was conducted "at which the defendants indicated their willingness to admit the violations and satisfy the state's demands in full," Shuff said in the letter.

vestigate spraying of dioxin-laden oil at numerous sites there. Thus far, Shuff's letter seemed to indicate that the state is dissatisfied with cooperation in achieving a settlement here.

State air official to discuss possible growth sanction here

Granite City aldermen will get the state's view Tuesday on possible federal sanctions that could be leveled here because of the city's nonattainment status as a serious clean air standards violator.

James Maloney, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) spokesman, has accepted an invitation to speak at tomorrow's 8 p.m. meeting of the Granite City City Council, after being asked by First Ward Alderman Casmer Skubish, aldermanic air pollution chairman.

According to Gary Brooks, the only remaining full-time air-monitoring employee for the city, Skubish made the request after becoming concerned that Granite City Township — as a "tier two" violator — is in danger of losing future road construction funds and permits to build new industries.

At a presentation to the federal EPA's list are five Madison County townships, including Granite City, Niantah and Venice, seven St. Clair County townships and the entire St. Louis metropolitan area.

Madison County is among six counties in the state and 144 counties nationwide cited by the U.S. EPA for not meeting the Dec. 31 Clean Air Act deadline.

Granite City is in long-term violation of EPA standards for total suspended particles (TSP) or dust. The health effects of particulates are directly related to their varying size and chemical composition. Problems associated with TSP's are increased respiratory disease, cardiopulmonary disease (heart attacks) and cancer, according to the IEPA.

The county also has been cited for failing to meet ozone standards established by the Clean Air Act. Ozone is a pulmonary irritant that affects the respiratory mucous membranes, lung tissues and respiratory functions. Exposure to ozone in sensitive individuals, as well as in healthy exercising persons, at certain short-term ozone concentration can cause chest tightness, coughing and wheezing, according to the IEPA.

Last week, State Rep. Sam W. Wolf (D-Granite City) held a meeting in his Springfield office with five other legislators, including State Sen. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville), to protest the federal government's rejection of the state's 1978 ozone compliance plan for the Metro-East area.

A protest letter subsequently was sent to Senators Alan J. Dixon and Charles Parson and U.S. Representatives Melvin Price and Paul Simon. In that letter, Wolf claims rejection of the state's ozone plan will cause "severe sanctions" on road construction.

"Imposition of sanctions by the U.S. EPA, would be in direct conflict and counter-productive to the theory of promoting and encouraging proper maintenance and replacement of roads, together with replacement of old inefficient polluting plants," Wolf stated.

Wolf has asked federal legislators to urge the EPA to reconsider its sanctions. "We believe that the pursuit of air quality in Illinois has and will be aggressive and we believe further that ozone and carbon monoxide standards can be met without the enactment of costly auto emissions testing legislation," Wolf concluded.

The entire state has failed to implement a mandatory auto-emissions inspection program, claiming it unnecessary and expensive. Some EPA officials have apparently agreed, but blame the state for lacking the restrictions on the Clean Air Act.

The EPA is expected to release lower standards for TSP, but it is uncertain if the city could qualify under those standards measuring particulate matter that enters the lungs.

Maloney made an appearance last March before the city's Economic Development Training Program to explain what type of restrictions new industries might face, and might face, according to state and federal standards.

Monthly cheese distribution set

Cheese distribution will take place Tuesday, Feb. 22, in Chouteau, Nantah and Venice townships and in Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC) has announced.

The county's monthly allotment of 33,400 pounds of cheese will be distributed to the following income guidelines for eligibility in the program: one person — $5,195 maximum yearly income, $683 monthly; two people — $10,885 yearly, $907 monthly; three people — $13,380 yearly, $1,115 monthly; four people — $16,275 yearly, $1,356 monthly; five people — $19,170 yearly, $1,597 monthly; six people — $21,665 yearly, $1,806 monthly.

The requirements apply to all residents regardless of source of income. In order to receive cheese, residents must present proof of income for all members of the household and identification showing place of residence. Residents also must have a check stub, letters from social security, green medical cards and letters from unemployment.

Cheese will be distributed at the township hall, Rural Route 2, Box 697A, North Thornegate Drive in Chouteau, at State Park Community Center for Nantah Township, and the Township Office, 1505 Fifth St. for Venice Township and Madison city residents.

Chouteau will distribute 1,600 pounds, Nantah 1,500 pounds, Venice and Madison 4,000 pounds.

Girls from both Granite City high schools will sponsor the third annual formal dress sale Saturday, Feb. 19, from 10 a.m. until noon in the Girls' Gymnasium at the EOC.

While the EOC cannot give priority to any group of people, the Illinois Department of Public Aid has informed the county that, if possible, delivery to shut-in and needy persons is encouraged. Arrangements also may be made for others to pick up cheese for shut-ins on a proxy basis.

Granite City High School South. The public is being invited to take part.

Those intending to offer goods for sale are required to bring the dresses to the gym at 8 a.m. Saturday for sizing and tagging.

This year, the seller also is asked to remain with her garments or place them in the care of a reliable person for pickup and delivery.

All sales are final and only cash will be accepted, according to Terry Papa, a township supervisor. Nearly 200 gowns were offered for sale last year, she added.

The forms are suitable for proms, as well as May Day and Spring Carousol activities, Mrs. Papa noted.

Two men invade GC mobile home

Roberta Cruise, 4010 Braden Ave., was awakened at 11:50 p.m. Sunday to find two men in the bedroom of her home, standing next to the bed. The pair ran from the dwelling when she began screaming.

Cruise found her purse was missing from the kitchen and called police. A neighbor reported hearing someone knocking at a door and then heard a door bang against the side of the Cruise mobile home and the sound of someone running in the driveway.

The area was searched by officers, who located two sets of keys, two lipsticks, hand cream and scissors, which had been in Mrs. Cruise's home.

The purse, also containing $40, a checkbook, driver's license and personal papers, was recovered.

One of the intruders was described in his early 20's, about 5 feet, 8 inches tall, dark hair, blue eyes. He had light-colored hair and was wearing a blue jean jacket. No description was listed for the second man.

BIRTHDAY GREETING

FRANKLIN D. REAGAN, Dr. Felicia Koch, 2641 Edison Ave., received a surprise birthday greeting this morning in a letter from President Ronald Reagan.

In the letter, he said, "My birthday celebration is brightened by the knowledge that you and I share the same special day...Happy Birthday, Nancy and I are proud to have you offer our best wishes for the occasion. God bless and keep you for many more."

On 80th birthday...

Recalls life of travel

A little white-haired woman with a quick smile and sparkling eyes, Mrs. Alta Turner thoroughly enjoyed her 80th birthday with members of her family and reminiscences about her colorful life traveling throughout the United States, Europe and Mexico with her husband, John Turner. He was an employee of Shell Refinery in Roxana and later Universal Oil Products Co. of Des Plaines, and the work required a great deal of traveling.

It is not unusual for the family to get together, as they meet once a week for dinner and card games, but this week, it was with special enthusiasm to celebrate the birthday of their sister.

The honoree, Alta Marie (Mathews) Turner was born Feb. 9, 1903 in Granite City and first attended school at Washington School on West 20th Street. She did not graduate from the eighth grade, as she and her mother were forced to take over the family responsibilities after her father was injured and could not work for some time.

By not telling her correct age, Mrs. Turner gained employment as a waitress at American Steel Foundries and later worked at the Can Factory for Karo Syrup. The latter company was set up for the most part for men overseas and here she met her future husband, John Richard Turner.

Respecting her father's wish that they wait until the war was over, the two young people continued to see each other and, in 1919, when she was 16, they were married at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Turner began working at Shell Refinery in Roxana and, after their two children, Harold Richard Turner and Esther Lorene Turner were born, they lived in a staff house.

Her world of travel started at this point in her life when, in 1930, the family was transferred to Houston, Texas. He left Shell and took a position with Universal Oil Products Co. and they moved to Calumet City, where they bought a home. There, they attended the Methodist Church in Hammond, Ind., and Mrs. Turner became a member of the Ladies Aid Society. She also was a member of the Mother's Singers and they sang on WIL Radio.

The next move was to LaGrange, Ill., and while they were living there, World War II was declared. Mrs. Turner and her husband moved to Cheyenne, Wyo., for the next assignment and here experienced terrible winters. They traveled to nearly all the states where refineries were located. After the war years, they moved to Dunwoody, Okla., then to McAllen, Texas, and eventually to Mexico, which included Tampico, Vera Cruz and Salamanca.

"I always had maids, but I preferred to do the cooking and I also took a washboard along so they would not beat our clothes on a rock," Mrs. Turner explained.

"I also remember spending a winter and a couple of summers in Montreal, Canada and living in St. John, Newfoundland, where the country was very beautiful," Mrs. Turner said.

They traveled to Europe twice on the Steam Ship United States and came back on the Queen Elizabeth.

In Europe, they were housed in Paris several times and in Germany also traveled by train through Belgium, as well as visiting Switzerland and Italy.

After an interesting life of travel, meeting many distinguished people and, above all, seeing the many wonders of the world, the travelers came to Granite City for their retirement and once again be with her family.

After becoming situated in a home here, Mr. and Mrs. Turner observed their golden wedding anniversary on Feb. 16, 1968. Mr. Turner died six months later.

Not daunted by her age, Mrs. Turner enjoys many hobbies, like playing various card games, growing many green vines and plants in her home and collecting cups and saucers, rocks, shells and spoons.

"I like to watch soap operas on television, eating at a restaurant each week and caring for the wild birds as they arrive in my yard each day."

Seated around a dining room table, centered with a large decorated birthday cake, with Mrs. Turner with her daughter, Mrs. Esther (Turner) Schopp, a brother, Ellis Mathews, brothers-in-law and sisters, Fred and Irene Haug, Charles and Dorothea Jones, William and Opal Landman, and Mrs. Marceline Dawdy.

Break ground soon for new theater facility

Contracts have been awarded and groundbreaking is expected soon for the Theater Performance Facility at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The contracts were announced Thursday in a report by the Executive Committee of the SIU Board of Trustees, meeting on the local campus.

Funding for the project, totaling $635,699, will be from SIUE Student Welfare and Recreation Fund (SWRF) monies, appropriated to the Board of Trustees from the SIU Income Fund. Contracts were awarded by the Executive Committee, subject to the release of funds by Gov. James Thompson, to:

Stutz Excavating Co., Alton, $1,945 for demolition work on the project.

R. W. Becker, Hanel, $307,070 for the general work.

Modern Plumbing and Heating, $17,500 for the heating, piping, refrigeration, and automatic temperature controls.

Elk Heating and Sheet Metal, Wood River, $22,286 for the ventilating and distribution system for conditioned air.

R. Dron Electrical Co., Granite City, $102,105 to the electrical work.

The new facility will be located on the site of the handball courts, south of the Bubble Gym. Existing structures at the site will be removed before construction of the new building begins.

The Theater Performance Facility will replace a quonset hut near North Drive currently used for student theater and dance productions.

The project has been under consideration since 1978, when it was one of several projects proposed to the board for SWRF funding.

Retention of an architect was approved in March 1980, and several design and site changes and cost revisions have been considered by the board since that time.

Officer cites truck driver

An off-duty officer alleged seeing a flatbed truck being parked in a fire lane at the Game Room parking lot, 2420 Nameoki Road, and asked the driver to relocate the vehicle, which he did, moving it about 10 feet away to the west side of the building, where it then blocked access to the lot from Nameoki Road.

Monte J. Glass, 20, of 4945 Old Altan Road, the driver, was requested to move the truck a second time, allegedly refused and was asked to leave the vehicle and show his driver's license.

The driver allegedly declined to get out of the truck, clutching the steering wheel with his hands, and was forced out of the vehicle by the off-duty officer and a security man. It was alleged that Glass emitted an alcoholic odor and he was placed in a squad car.

A hunting knife in a leather sheath was found lodged in a crack in the driver's seat of the truck and was recovered from beneath the seat.

At police headquarters, Glass allegedly produced part of a cigarette from his shirt pocket, which was tested and was alleged to be cannabis. He also reportedly became belligerent.

Glass was charged with disobeying a police officer, unlawful possession of cannabis and resisting a police officer.

ALLEGEDLY FAILS TO HEED WARNING

While officers were operating a radar unit in the 2800 block of Nameoki Road at 3:40 p.m. Friday, they reported hearing extremely loud music coming from a nearby address and asked Oral R. Hutchins, 27, of 2822 Nameoki Road, to turn the volume down.

Hutchins allegedly saluted the officers in a mocking manner and slammed the door. Five minutes later, he reportedly opened the door again and resumed playing loud guitar music.

He was charged with disorderly conduct and was released after posting a $60 cash bond.

Occupancy ordinance revamped in Venice

By VALERIE EVENDEN
 of the Press-Record

The Venice City Council approved amendments to the 1975 occupancy ordinance at its meeting last week, adding a new temporary repair permit section to the original statute.

The new section also provides for a one-time extension of the temporary permit for a 90-day period, at the discretion of the building inspector.

No one may occupy a dwelling for which a temporary permit has been issued, the ordinance states.

It sets a $5 fee for the temporary permit, which will be deducted from the regular $15 occupancy permit fee, which is due at the time of the second inspection.

Under the statute, it is unlawful for any person, firm or corporation that provides a utility service, such as gas, water and electricity, to provide the service to any building or addition or part that is to be used as a dwelling until a certificate of occupancy or a temporary permit has been issued by the building commissioner and presented to the utility service.

statute in such case made as amended.

Dated at Granite City, Illinois, this 14th day of January, A.D., 1983.

ASSUMED NAME PUBLICATION NOTICE
 Public Notice is hereby given that on January 25, 1983, a certificate was filed in the Office of the County Clerk of Madison County, Illinois, setting forth the names and post-office addresses of all of the persons owning, conducting and transacting the business known as "EUGENE'S HEATING AND COOLING," located at 2015 Skeen, Edwardsville, Illinois. Dated this 25th day of January, 1983.

The 1975 ordinance was amended after it was brought to the council's attention late in December that a landlord must pay the $15 fee to have utilities reconnected during severe weather to protect his property from damage and a further $15 fee is required by the city when the property is inspected prior to occupancy.

An occupancy permit is only issued when the work is satisfactorily completed and total dwelling has been inspected.

Mayor Echols reported having visited senior citizens' centers last week, including the buildings in Maryville and Chouteau Township, and noted that he expects to hear from the architect within a week to 10 days concerning plans for the proposed Venice Senior Citizens' Center.

"We do want a super building for the seniors, but I don't think we need the extravaganzas they have in the ones I saw," the mayor said.

He noted that "one center had a greenhouse and one was six times bigger than this room," mentioning to the council chambers.

He believes the Venice center should cost about $200,000, with the remaining funds shifted back to the rehabilitation program, the mayor said.

Traffic over the McKinley Bridge has increased an average of 570 vehicles per day as compared to January 1982, Bridge Manager Tom Fields reported.

A total of 310,639 vehicles used the bridge in the past month, showing a daily average use of 10,020, he said.

A letter was read by the mayor from an East Alton resident, complimenting McKinley Bridge employees who had assisted a carload of people enroute to work to reach Boatman's Bank in St. Louis.

After their vehicle stalled in traffic near the bridge toll booth, one of the employees transported the stranded man in his personal vehicle to St. Louis. "Everyone was very kind and helpful," the writer said.

In other business, it was noted: The Southwest Illinois Council of Mayors will meet Feb. 23 at Panorama Lanes in Belleville, with a Monsanto official addressing the group on hazardous waste material. Dinner will cost $11 per person and a cash bar will be open. Swansea will serve as host city at the dinner meeting.

A letter was read from Congressman Paul Simon, stating his strong support for the continuation of the General Revenue Sharing Act and offering to help correct any inaccuracies in the census figures on which revenue sharing is based.

Approval was given to a request for use of a bus from the Venice Senior Citizens to attend the Ice Capades March 24 in St. Louis. The seniors would pay for their own tickets to the show, it was explained.

Briefly discussed were problems involved in granting raises to city employees, with efforts to be made in that direction, and how commissioners involved in regulating public utilities could be elected, as opposed to appointed, thereby ensuring more response to public pressure.

Budget causing treasurer layoffs

Madison County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus blames an inadequate budget for his decision to lay off 14 of his staff of 28.

Notices of the Feb. 25 layoffs were given Feb. 9, and some may take their accumulated vacation time in the first half of March.

The layoffs will last two or three months, he estimates, saying the alternative would have been to lay off five persons permanently. He says about $30,000 will be saved.

The total budget for fiscal 1983, ending next Nov. 30, was $485,000 for the county treasurer, an increase of $500 from fiscal 1982.

Treasurer office salaries were $365,000 in 1979 and $414,000 in 1982 and would have reached $456,000 this year.

Salaries are negotiated by unions and the Madison County Board, elected officials are given lump sums for their budgets and are allowed to spend the funds as they see fit. Raises this year amounted to $1,040, or $114 for supervisors.

Salary increases are difficult to absorb when there is no corresponding budget rise, Henkhaus commented. Due to an income-outgo difference of about $2 million, the county government asked some departments to trim their spending five percent to 25 percent.

The treasurer acknowledges that his budget was boosted slightly but says the board apparently is taking no action on his past efforts to reduce costs. His staff has five fewer persons than in 1979.

He speculates that the layoffs will delay final tax collection and distribution, although only two percent of the total has not been disbursed.

The late winter and early spring weather has slowed tax collections in workload at the treasurer office. Henkhaus says that when layoffs occur, they are called back in two or three months, at the start of the next tax cycle, some full-time workers may be limited to part-time.

The 14 being laid off include 13 full-time employees and one part-time worker. Their selection was based on seniority and they will be eligible for unemployment compensation.

Hartbarger seeking millions from SCA

A suit by Kenneth S. Hartbarger against SCA Services seeks $1 million in punitive damages on several counts as well as actual damages related to the closing of Global Waste Services of St. Louis, an Illinois corporation.

The newly-filed suit says Global developed a waste hauling and disposal business in Madison County and St. Louis, obtaining 29 customers.

There was extensive competition between the two firms from May to September 1980, it is contended.

SCA is described in the suit as operating the Milam Landfill and Chain of Rocks Landfill.

Global and property in Belleville were sold to SCA on Sept. 24, 1980, with $55,000 paid on Oct. 11, including $70,000 for routes and equipment, the Third Circuit Court lawsuit says. Hartbarger alleges that SCA's actions were not the total value of Global. He reports actual damages of $175,000, for which triple the amount, or $525,000, is being sought.

Another count in the suit asks for $60,000, and a third seeks $225,000 in special damages.

The case has been assigned to the court of Circuit Judge Horace Calvo.

BOOKED ON WARRANT
 Kenneth S. Hartbarger, 20, Fairmount City, was arrested at 8 p.m. Thursday on a 1981 Granite City warrant alleging failure to yield the right-of-way at an intersection. He was freed on $100 bail.

Governor offers GC more funds, wants retraining

Governor James R. Thompson has proposed a four-year financial package for Illinois to "restore services, maintain a standard of decency and establish a base for future economic growth."

He said his proposed income tax increase would boost Granite City's share from the present $782,900 to $1,111,500.

"I mean this to be a four-year plan for Illinois. Under this plan, we will pay off our recession debts — both on-time and recurring debts — gain the ability to restore any and all 1983 cuts in critical areas, and avoid massive disruptions in vital educational and other human needs next year."

"It can give us the strongest foundation of any state in the Midwest to revitalize our economy and re-employ our people," the governor told the General Assembly.

"Under this plan, those who are willing to bring jobs to this state will know exactly what they can expect in Illinois for the next four years. And the taxpayers can be secure against higher state taxes during that time."

"I think this is important when our neighbors are lurching from one fiscal crisis to another, from cuts in services to higher taxes, with no real end in sight."

Thompson told lawmakers that the foundation of the package involves increases in several state taxes. They include:

A 1.5 percent increase in the state income tax, from 2.5 to 4 percent, and a 1.6 percent rise in the corporate income tax, from 4 to 5.6 percent.

A higher state tax on alcoholic beverages.

An increase in the state gasoline tax of 3.5 cents, from 7.5 to 11, along with increases in vehicle license fees and truck taxes.

In addition to these increases, he said his package would raise the personal income tax to $1,100 in 1984 and $1,200 by 1985 from the current $1,000, and increase the "circuit breaker" property tax relief program for disabled and senior citizens.

Thompson said the continuing recession has caused high unemployment and drastically cut revenues coming into the state treasury.

"We have labored hard for six years to carefully manage the affairs of this state, and we have pounded waste and excess out of state government."

"Though we have maximized the return of federal dollars to Illinois and made great strides in the improvement of our business climate, and though recession may well be ending after four years of real economic growth, it is my duty to tell you we can no longer save and cut, stretch and borrow, nor put off until tomorrow the pressing human needs of today."

"For 14 years, this state has gotten by — sometimes well and sometimes not so well — without any increase in state taxes."

"But the same cruel recession which has been punishing so many of our citizens has taken its toll on the ability of your state government to maintain a standard of decency in the delivery of some human services; a standard of excellence in the delivery of needed skills and learning to our people through education; and a standard of achievement of new and diverse economic development."

The governor said the recession is ending but that no economic forecast of which he is aware sees a return to recovery in time to allow the state to pay bills that were "put aside in the hope that recession would end sooner."

"People will not return to work overnight. Income tax revenues will continue to lag substantially for the foreseeable future."

Without the tax increases, he said, funding for many programs, including education, care for the poor and sick, and help to local governments, would be drastically cut.

With the taxes, he said, the average family of four earning $22,500 a year would pay just over $3 a week more, and less if that family itemizes its federal income tax return.

"I believe this program to be right, sound and necessary. I will fight for it throughout Illinois."

"I hope I will have your help, and in the end, your consent," he told legislators.

"Upon this, the future of our great state and its people depend."

Thompson listed the following state service cuts in 1983-84 if there are no new resources:

— Cut elementary and secondary schools by 10 percent or $200 million.

— Larger classes, school closings, handicapped student funding down $25 million, more pressure on local property taxes.

— Cut universities and community colleges by 10 percent or $100 million.

— Lay off 1,000 faculty, eliminate academic programs, cut job training.

— Eliminate medical support to the working poor.

— Cut state payments for health services for poor children.

— Reduce services to mental health patients in state institutions.

— Eliminate state support for cities and counties, resulting in higher property taxes.

— Cut supervision of 9,000 adult parolees.

— Reduce needed prison and work release capacity by 1,000 beds, forcing early release.

— Close all state parks and historic sites two days per week.

— Cut farm soil erosion programs.

— Eliminate state support for arts and museums.

— End state guardianship services.

— Lay off over 1,000 state employees — wages frozen, benefits cut.

— Cut funding for institutions and group homes for wards of the state.

— And cut inspection activity by agriculture.

In calling for higher taxes, Thompson said revenue is needed to meet recession spending obligations, one-time spending demands, and fund growth in selected programs for the future.

He asked legislators to raise individual and corporate income taxes by upwards of $1.5 billion, liquor taxes by $50 million, and gasoline and truck taxes and license fees by $30 million.

Urging retraining of workers in Madison County and other hard-hit areas, Gov. Thompson concluded, "Not many jobs are leaving Illinois for other hard-hit areas because of the business climate, but many are being lost from our economy as industry changes."

"Shall an automaker or a steelworker be doomed to permanent unemployment with devastating and tragic economic consequences for the family — because the number of these jobs has decreased?"

"That is unacceptable to me as the governor, and as a citizen, of this state. I believe it is unacceptable to you."

"We must substantially expand our effort at retraining these kinds of workers to give them, and others like them, a new chance in life."

"To paraphrase Lyndon Johnson, many Illinoisans live on the outskirts of hope. Our task is to help replace their despair with opportunity. And our system of higher education is ready — in fact, eager — to respond to this challenge."

Thompson said the recession is ending but that no economic forecast of which he is aware sees a return to recovery in time to allow the state to pay bills that were "put aside in the hope that recession would end sooner."

"People will not return to work overnight. Income tax revenues will continue to lag substantially for the foreseeable future."

Without the tax increases, he said, funding for many programs, including education, care for the poor and sick, and help to local governments, would be drastically cut.

With the taxes, he said, the average family of four earning $22,500 a year would pay just over $3 a week more, and less if that family itemizes its federal income tax return.

Shatner's new tricks

By NANCY ANDERSON

HOLLYWOOD — Star of both "Star Trek" films, Bill Shatner, is among the many who'll tell you that the second "Star Trek" movie is better than the first.

The second, Paramount's newly released "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan," is a sequel to the 1967 television episode where Shatner, as Capt. Kirk of the Starship Enterprise, overcame a brilliant adversary named Khan, played by Ricardo Montalban. Kahn and his family were banished to an inhospitable planet. The segment was called "Space Seed."

In the new film, Khan escapes his banishment to attempt revenge upon Kirk, now an admiral.

Wearing a blonde wig he might have borrowed from Jean Harlow, Montalban gets to exercise acting skills usually dormant on "Fantasy Island."

Shatner, too, gets to do some new tricks playing Kirk, who is charmingly vulnerable in "Star Trek II" and older than he used to be, fearful of aging, unable to read without glasses, meeting for the first time a full-grown son who initially doesn't much like him.

The fleshing out of the space hero he's interpreted so long appealed mightily to Shatner.

"Much of what happened in the film is happening to me in real life," he confesses. "No one 10 years younger than I can understand what I'm feeling... The vulnerability of Kirk makes him attractive (to me)."

The "Star Trek" series was successful, Shatner thinks, because while it dealt with machinery, it was about "the human condition," and so, he says, is "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan."

"We didn't compete with 'Star Wars' special effects."

The first "Star Trek" feature film "suffered from a lack of post-production time as well as from a script that never jelled. "We lost shooting time through accidents. The film wasn't finished until two days before its contractual completion date, so it was never previewed."

Shatner claims that the character of Kirk was inspired by the legendary Capt. Horatio Hornblower, a high-seas adventurer.

"It's a magical role." Yet he'd never want to play it again in a television series. "Because a television series would suffer by comparison with the films."

Successful on Broadway before he made his Hollywood mark, Shatner is offered Broadway plays from time to time and says he'll return to the New York stage eventually. Meanwhile, he does other stage work as his schedule allows.

His staging of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," starring his wife, Marcy Lafferty as Maggie, received critical raves.

But he'll always be ready to put on the uniform of now-Admiral Kirk should another "Star Trek" film go before cameras. Especially if he likes its script as well as he liked that for "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan."

Believe it or not, "That's Incredible," wanted to be "Believe it or Not," according to Ron Lyon, producer of the later show.

"The network (ABC) tried to get rights to 'Believe It Or Not,'" he says, as a limited series for ABC somewhat in the nature of a travelogue.

"When I sold the show to ABC," Lyon says, "they loved the title but didn't know what to do with it."

CLEAN OUT THE REFRIGERATOR.

Who can you count on to lend a helping hand?

You can count on us.
 We help when disaster strikes.
 During fires, floods, hurricanes and tornadoes.
 We help with food, clothing, health care and a place to stay.
 We help when folks need blood.
 We help the elderly.
 We help expectant parents prepare for their baby.
 We help veterans receive all their benefits.
 We'll teach you how to check blood pressure.
 We'll teach you CPR, swimming and first aid.
 We're the American Red Cross.
 People helping people.
 Everyone working together to improve things in your community.
 That's what Red Cross exists for.
 Join Red Cross.

'Valene' takes a new direction

By ALAN L. GANSBERG

HOLLYWOOD — Like any good prime-time serial performer, JOAN VAN ARK will not disclose what will happen to her character, Valene, on "Knots Landing" this season. But, she will allow, "I like the turn my character is taking."

"Valene has gone from being a goody two-shoes to being Candice Bergen in 'Rich and Famous,'" Joan said. "She's written a bestselling book and I hope she's more sure of herself. She's finding out who she really is."

Truth be told, if the character hadn't started to move in the new direction, Joan might have done so herself. She reported "getting antsy" after four years on the series, ready to take a new course.

"Luckily," she remarked, "I'm with a company of actors who really care. It's the fourth year, but we're still doing our work. No shortcuts. This is a wonderful ensemble company."

Nevertheless, Joan is the first to admit, "Boy, do I look for other roles. I want to do something 180 degrees from this. We finish production on the season Feb. 18, so I have a long hiatus — four months. Hopefully, another project I'm discussing will fall into place."

Joan is not an actress who is familiar with being out of work. There has almost always been something. When not in front of the cameras, she's in front of a microphone as one of the more active women who are hired to do voice-overs, the voices you hear when commercials air.

Plus, she's the mother to a 13-year-old, VANESSA, and jokes, "It kills me to say that she's 13. It means she's getting old, and that means I'm getting old."

But not slowing down. Joan reports that she can run up to 10 miles every morning, and although while she's working she shuns parties and the social life, when there's a long time off "I can be a crazy person."

"I enjoy my champagne," she laughed. "In fact, give me champagne and sushi and I'm in pig heaven."

DANIELLE BRISE-

BOIS, the same age as Joan Van Ark's daughter, has become nationally known as the niece on "Archie Bunker's Place" and just celebrated her 10th year in show business. And they say the audience is fickle.

There'll be a big casting search for an actress to portray RITA HAYWORTH in a telefeature CBS is planning on the film star. RON SAMUELS originally developed the property as a vehicle for his then-wife, LYNDY CARTER, but they've split and the project now belongs to DAVID, SUSSKIND. He may have someone waiting in the wings.

GARY TRUDEAU announced that he's taking time away from his famous "Doonesbury" comic strip to do other projects and he's not wasting any time. He'll write a feature entitled "Zoo Place," with a setting that is being described as "political." After that, he'll write a script for none other than ROBERT REDFORD.

Boss Hogg on "The Dukes of Hazzard" finally got to really run the whole show. SORRELL BROOKE, who plays the character, made his directorial debut by helming the 100th episode of the CBS series.

SALLY STRUTHERS will leave for Africa as soon as "Gloria" is finished for the season. She'll have a camera crew with her and will be filming sequences for the Christian Children's Fund, for which she is spokesperson.

CARRIE FISHER is trying Broadway. She took over for AMANDA PLUMMER in the hit play "Agnes of God" on Jan. 2.

JAIME LYN BAUER, who left "The Young and the Restless" earlier this year, was one of the first names slated for the cast list of the new NBC series "Bare Essence," based on a mini-series that aired on CBS. GENIE ANN FRANCIS is expected to return to the lead.

VICTORIA PRINCIPAL has said "NO!" to doing the "Dallas" feature that has been so talked about. She doesn't want to do the same role on the big screen.
